WHAT IS THIS THING CALLED SECURITY? In Fortune for June of 1949 appears an article ably pointing up an observation which has long been evident to those in the educational field, as well as to those in business having to do with the hiring of University graduates. The modern Senior, and presumably that applies specifically to graduates of Schools of Commerce and Business Administration, and, therefore, particularly to members of Delta Sigma Pi, seems to possess a haunting fear of discontinuity of employment and income. Apparently, more than anything else, he wants to know that he will have a job and a weekly pay envelope for the rest of his life.

There is no such thing as that kind of security. There is no such thing as security against failure. There is no such thing as security against incompetence. Our free enterprise system necessarily is based upon the right of the buyer to select the superior product and reject the inferior, and prate as one will about the difference between the human and the material product, the fact remains that the man with the ability, the know-how, the initiative, and the stick-to-itiveness will be selected for advancement, and the man without it will live out his life in mediocrity or worse. Under any other economy the process is even more ruthless—the unfit suffers more, and his elimination or demise is even faster in any autocratic state.

In the years when specialized business training was developing in the University, the primary purpose of enrollment was to fit oneself to compete more effectively in the marketplace. Most of the students then asked only for the chance to learn to use the tools of the profession of management. They wanted to go into business for themselves for the most part. They were willing to gamble that given the advantage of training that they would be able to compete effectively. They were willing to assume the calculated business risk that as entrepreneurs in their own right, they would in the course of ten or fifteen or twenty years surpass those who preferred the security of a payroll, in earning capacity, in freedom, in self-sufficiency, and in satisfactions of life. They calculated that even if they had to start by the operation of a peanut stand, they would in that occupation have more freedom, more satisfaction, and a better opportunity than they would as an employee in whatever capacity.

Even a casual observation of any one of the time groups compels the conclusion that by and large they have not done so badly for themselves. A very large percentage of those who have had the courage to strike out for themselves, and to scorn the security of a weekly paycheck, have in the course of time achieved positions which undoubtedly appear enviable to the young man first starting.

The only place the individual can find any kind of security against financial want is within himself. If you have the ability, the energy, and the training necessary to today's competition, in other words if you have what it takes, there is no reason why you should not be as successful in your own business, as you would be as an employee in a large corporation. If you do not have what it takes, you can fail dismally in either spot. One difference is that you will achieve success more quickly in your own business and suffer failure or be resigned to a life of mediocrity more quickly as an employee. In the large corporation the competition of brain against brain is fierce. Those who rise above mere clerkships must assume responsibilities, must meet quotas, and their performance is measured against rigorous standards. Such an individual must meet the pressure of internal politics, and the bigger and more successful the corporation by which he is employed, and the more important the job he has, the more that becomes true. The corporate executive today is burning his body in a white heat, and it is perfectly safe to say that more ulcers come from those occupations than from those in individual businesses.

The swing of student opinion from the position of twenty-five years ago to the position of today is understandable. The '30s taught all of us unpleasant things about life and bred in us a desire for security. If there were such a thing as security against want, I should be for it, but I do not believe that attachment to a payroll gives any such security. I would rather have my income security based upon the individual judgments of many customers, than upon the whim of a single boss.

For the most part, the ultimate objectives of students have not changed much. They want now, as they have always wanted, enough money to live comfortably, raise a family, and to have a reasonable number of the luxuries of our American way of life. They want time to pursue their hobbies, and to have a little fun as they live. Will those objectives be realized more quickly or more easily by the employee of big business than by the independent entrepreneur?

The easy way out is to get a job, ride along in the stream of events, and let nature take its course. It takes courage to leave the liferaft, and strike out for oneself. Opportunity to strike out abounds in every community for those with vision to see it. Despite the tendency for big business to get bigger, there is still room, and there will always be room for thousands upon thousands of small business enterprises. These opportunities do not seek the man; the man must seek them. Bear in mind that nothing was ever accomplished worthwhile by taking the easy way out. To the graduating Senior, it is my suggestion that he analyze carefully what it is he wants out of life, then consider carefully by and with all of the counsel and evidence he can get how to achieve that end. I urge him not to overlook the possibilities in small business.

Delta Sigma Pi Continues Growth With Three New Chapters

Gamma Kappa Chapter at Michigan State College

ON OCTOBER 29, 1949, Delta Pi Sigma, local professional business fraternity at Michigan State College was formally installed as the Gamma Kappa Chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi. The ceremonies held in the ballroom of the Student Union Building on campus were attended by 56 delegates and alumni groups from all over the country. University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, Ohio State, Rutgers, Boston University, Northwestern University, University of Detroit, and Wayne University were among the many universities and colleges represented.

Registration of all delegates began at 1:00 P.M. At approximately 2:00 P.M. the ritualistic ceremonies began and lasted until 4:30 in the afternoon. Group pictures were then taken and at 6:15, the formal banquet was served in one of the dining halls of the Union Building. Vases of red roses stood on every table and against a royal purple backdrop, the golden letters of Delta Sigma Pi hung impressively from the wall in back of the speakers table.

The welcoming address was delivered by L. Dale Faunce, counselor for men at Michigan State College. Mr. Faunce welcomed the group to the campus and on behalf of the administration said that they were both proud and fortunate in having such an organization on campus. He also felt that the local chapter had an enviable record at Michigan State College and that the future held many successes in store for it. A history of the School of Business and Public Service was given by Professor Edward A. Gee, head of the Department of Business Administration. Following the address by Professor Gee, came the address of Dean Herman J. Wyngarden, Dean of the School of Business and Public Service. Dean Wyngarden delivered an impressive talk on "Training for Business." He stressed the importance of professional rather than specific training in the business fields. Dean Wyngarden disclosed that more and more the industries of America today are looking for men with a professional background.

The history of the local fraternity was then presented by Don Shields, historian of the newly installed chapter. H. G. Wright, Grand Secretary-Treasurer of Delta Sigma Pi acted as toastmaster. Walter C. Sehm, Grand President of Delta Sigma Pi gave an impressive talk on the necessity of well educated, clear thinking young men and women in the world today. He stressed that the world today stood at the threshold of another era similar to the one prevailing during the dark ages. Brother Sehm emphasized the need for a nation of young men and women who would be unafraid to shout the principles under which all free men live and die. The threat to our way of life was very real, he said, and the future of our nation depended on what our generation did today.

Congratulatory telegrams from all over the country poured in to welcome the newly installed chapter and best wishes for the future were bestowed on the new born Gamma Kappa Chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi at Michigan State College.

Michigan State College

The year of the California gold rush was also a momentous year in the State of Michigan. On March 17, 1849, at the newly constructed Capitol in Lansing, the Michigan State Agriculture Society was founded. Societies of this type were organized as early as 1840 to help solve the problems facing farmers. It was primarily the efforts of the Michigan Society that on February 12, 1855, Governor Kingsley S. Bingham signed a bill for the establishment of the Michigan Agricultural College, later known as Michigan State College, the first agricultural school in the world. The College opened its doors with an enrollment of 60 and a faculty of six.

THE NEW STUDENT UNION BUILDING on the Michigan State College campus boasts of an exceptionally modern interior and most extensive facilities. All of the installation ceremonies of Gamma Kappa Chapter were held here.

MSC, as the college is popularly known today, blazed the trail for the land grant colleges and universities which were established later under the Morrill Act of 1862. The college is governed by the State Board of Agriculture, and financed under the Morrill Act, and in part by the Michigan State Legislature.

The first few years of operation saw the enrollment of Michigan Agricultural College doubled. During the next 28 years the number of students at the school never rose above 120. However, with the addition of the Engineering Department in 1885, and the Home Economics Department in 1896, the enrollment was more than 500 by the turn of the century. By 1930 it was 5,000 and today it is well over 15,000.

In 1925, the name Michigan Agriculture College was changed to Michigan State College. Also in 1925 the curriculum of business administration was introduced in the Division of Liberal Arts. In the school year 1928-29, business administration students totaled 290. Today they total over 2,000 and comprise the largest department in the school.

Eleven thousand persons are housed on the campus of Michigan State. Faculty members number over 2,000; including 1,340 as teachers, 134 as administrative staff, and 530 men and women engaged in extension, experimental, and research work. More than 50 major courses of study are offered. This figure excludes courses in the Basic College, which has been hailed by American educators as one of the most progressive ideas in the realm of higher education in the nation today. In addition, more than 60 conferences, short courses, and special courses are held each year on the campus. During the year 1947-48, more than 40,000 persons attended these "extracurricular" institutes and clinics.

To provide more adequately for the increased number of state students, Michigan State College embarked on a $30,000,000 post-war building program, which was nearly completed by the middle of 1949. This program includes $13,000,000 appropriated by the State legislature, and $17,000,000 secured through loans for "self-liquidating" construction.

The campus proper at East Lansing covers an area of approximately 3,000 acres, although the total land holdings of the College in the whole state of Michigan are almost 12,000 acres. The college community is made up of 124 permanent buildings, and 988 temporary buildings, most of which have been constructed during the past two years. There are more than 20 miles of sidewalks and 16 miles of roadways on the campus which is bisected by the Red Cedar River.

College and university accrediting associations have placed their stamp of approval on Michigan State College as a Class A institution. These agencies include the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the Association of American Universities, the Association of American Colleges, the American Association of American Women, the National Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education, the American Veterinary Medicine Association, and the American Chemical Society.

Michigan State College was reorganized into eight schools in 1944: School of Agriculture, School of Business and Public Service, School of Engineering, School of Graduate Study, School of Home Economics, School of Science and Arts, School of Veterinary Medicine, and Basic College.

The facilities of the School of Agriculture offers students unexcelled opportunities to come into direct contact with proved and applied agricultural practices. Students are trained in the scientific methods used in agricultural research.

The School of Business and Public Service includes the departments of Business Administration, Hotel Administration, Journalism, Political Science and Public Administration, Economics, Physical Education, Health and Recreation, Police Administration, and Social Service. William Berkey Hall has housed most of the Business Administration classes since 1947 when the building was erected.

Since its founding the School of Engineering has graduated 7,000 students. At present there are 1,834 students enrolled in this school, which has 160 full and part time instructors.

The School of Graduate Studies reached an all time record high of 1,310 students this year. Approximately 150 students from 27 foreign countries were enrolled. The government of Burma, Egypt, India, Pakistan, and Turkey have sent 34 carefully selected students for advanced studies at Michigan State College.

In 1896, the School of Home Economics was established at Michigan State College with an enrollment of 30 students. Today it is one of the largest such schools in the country. Graduates of Home Economics are prepared for work in nutrition, dietetics, teaching, child development, and business students may take courses in pattern and textiles, home service works, retailing and designing.

The School of Science and Arts provides students with a liberal education in such studies as language, literature, social science, mathematical and physical science, and biological science.

The School of Veterinary Medicine this year claimed an enrollment of more than 450 students. Michigan State is one of 10 schools in the country recognized by the American Veterinary Medical Association. One of the basic aims is to supply veterinarians for Michigan's 750 million dollar livestock industry.

Michigan State College opened its program of basic education for all students in the fall of 1944. Each student that enters is required to complete at least five of the seven courses offered in the Basic College. These courses include: Biological Science, Physical Science, Effective Living, Written and Spoken English, Social Science, Literature and Fine Arts, and History of Civilization.

The average student spends two years in the Basic College. However, if the student shows at the end of the first term a high scholastic rating he may take the final examination without completing the remainder of the course. If he passes the comprehensive examination with a "C" or better, he receives a full year credit in that subject. The fundamental idea of the Basic College is to permit above average students to complete their basic training as fast as their abilities allow.

The years 1947, 48 and 49 will be remembered as milestones in Michigan State athletic history. The athletic facilities were expanded to rank with the finest in the nation. The completion of Macklin Field Stadium, seating 50,000, gave Michigan State the sixth largest stadium in the midwest. Recent improvements in the bleachers in Jenison Fieldhouse resulted in an increase in the capacity for basketball spectators to over 15,000 people. Last May 21, the coveted Western Conference officially accepted Michigan State College as its tenth member. State will not, however, start active competition until the 1950-51 season because all Western Conference schedules are made up well in advance.

In seven years, Michigan State College will celebrate its centennial. An intense student pride and alumni loyalty will probably make the occasion as indicative of the future as it will be laudatory of the past. For among the most faithfully kept traditions at State is an insistence that progress stops only long enough to consolidate its gains, that yesterday is never more important than tomorrow.

The Department of Business Administration

Michigan State College offered its first business administration courses under the Division of Liberal Arts. This arrangement prevailed until 1944, and students who majored in business administration did so under a special curriculum directed by Professor Charles S. Dunford. In 1944, however, a general reorganization of the college established a Department of Business Administration in the School of Business and Public Service.

Today, the department offers a complete list of comprehensive courses to prepare men and women for careers in finance, production, retailing, accounting, transportation, insurance, real estate, and other specially arranged fields.

At Michigan State College, business training begins in the Basic College. During the student's first two years, an introduction to the principles of economics, accounting, statistics, and office or industrial management is combined with cultural and scientific courses. This program has a two-fold purpose: (1) To qualify the student for admission to the specialized studies

THE INSTALLATION BANQUET of Gamma Kappa Chapter at Michigan State College held on October 29 in East Lansing, Michigan. This banquet was held in one of the rooms of the beautiful Student Union Building on the campus.

in the Department of Business Administration; (2) To familiarize the student, early in his training, with the underlying structure of commerce and industry.

At the opening of the spring term, 1949, thirty-five full-time and two part-time instructors were training 1,904 men and 274 women for careers in business. Professor Edward E. Gee now heads the department.

Graduate courses offered by the department lead to the Master of Arts Degree in Business Administration. Rigid scholastic standards require that only grades of "A" and "B" count toward the advanced degree. Within the broad scope of business, the fields of accounting, marketing, insurance, and finance have been particularly developed to meet the requirements for graduate study.

A one-year curriculum is available to the person who finds it desirable to take a short course in elementary business administration subjects. Under it, the student makes a selection from an extensive group of useful business courses such as accounting, marketing, business law, typing, and shorthand. For all of these, he may receive college credit. To enter this program, the student must (1) be a veteran of the U. S. Armed Forces with an honorable discharge, and (2) be able to present evidence of at least three years of high school training or its equivalent.

A two-year terminal program is available to the student who is not working for a bachelor's degree. The terminal student is awarded a certificate by the Department of Business Administration upon the successful completion of this program. The program includes courses in general business, insurance, retailing, and secretarial science. The courses, although necessarily limited by time, are under the direct supervision of the Department of Business Administration.

The department maintains close contact with representatives of industry and commerce to acquaint them with the business administration courses and to insure these courses' being adapted to the requirements of business. Field training jobs are included as an important feature in the student's training. Each term, the department places students in jobs dealing with marketing, salesmanship, or accounting. The apprentice student works as a paid employee in his particular field for the complete term. Although the student is formally enrolled at Michigan State College, he takes no formal courses from the school during his field training. Upon the successful completion of this term of training, the trainee receives from three to six business administration credits for his work.

The Business Administration Department works closely with the College Placement Office in checking over scholastic records and arranging interviews with prospective employers for those students who graduate with satisfactory scholastic records.

History of Delta Pi Sigma Fraternity

Tentative plans to organize a professional business fraternity at Michigan State College were made at a small, informal meeting of business students on January 20, 1949. At the first meeting, 26 students outlined the purpose and functions of the fraternity and elected three temporary officers. Robert Hodgson was named president; Robert Stahlman, vice-president; Hugh Chamberlain, secretary. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution, and three faculty members were selected to serve as advisors. Those chosen were Mr. Bruce Futhey, Mr. Nelson E. Jones, and Mr. Harold Stevenson, instructors in the Department of Business Administration. After deciding upon a name for the fraternity, the first meeting of Delta Pi Sigma adjourned.

At a meeting on February 6, J. D. Thomson, Assistant Grand Secretary-Treasurer of Delta Sigma Pi, spoke to the group on the purposes, functions, and organization of Delta Sigma Pi. In the discussion period which followed, Mr. Thomson voiced his approval of the proposed constitution. Also present at this meeting was Professor E. A. Gee, head of the Department of Business Administration.

At the meeting on February 14, the various provisions of the new constitution were read and discussed. After official adoption of the constitution, the following officers were elected to head the fraternity: Robert Hodgson, head master; Robert Stahlman, senior warden; Robert Greenough, junior warden; Fred Tyson, treasurer; Hugh Chamberlain, scribe; Rudolph Paquet, chancellor; and Robert Carpenter, historian.

At the meeting on March 17, the group was notified that the constitution had passed the approval of the Michigan State Student Council and had been referred to the faculty committee for final approval. It was at this meeting that the fraternity unanimously passed a resolution to petition for membership in Delta Sigma Pi.

The constitution was approved and accepted by the faculty committee on April 18. On April 20, a Smoker was held in the ballroom of the Student Union on campus. At a later meeting of the active members, 38 pledges were selected. On April 24, a conference was arranged with several members of the Delta Sigma Pi Chapter of the University of Michigan and Grand Council member Armstrong of Detroit. The meeting was opened with short speeches by the University of Michigan members, who made helpful and valuable suggestions on chapter operations and functions. Each speech was followed by a question and answer period.

On April 26, 27, 28, the fraternity undertook the responsibility for campus promotion of the "Shell Oil Company Petroleum Institute." This institute was offered by the Shell Oil Company as a public service to acquaint Michigan State College students with one of the largest industries in the nation. Because of the business and engineering opportunities in the industry, the program proved to be especially informative to students of engineering, economics, and business administration.

The institute opened with a lecture on the organization and scope of the petroleum industry by Mr. L. W. Gray, Supervisor of Employee Relations at Shell Oil. This talk was followed by an informative technicolor film, "The Birth of an Oil Field." On the second and third days Mr. O. F. Schneider, District Manager and Sales Staff; Mr. E. P. Ericson, Operations Manager, and Mr. C. S. Maxwell, Office Manager, spoke on the various functions and organization of their respective fields. On the closing day the speakers accepted an invitation to have luncheon with the members of Delta Pi Sigma and two faculty advisors.

The annual election of officers for the year 1949-50, as prescribed by the constitution, was held on May 16. The following men were elected to office: Robert Hodgson, head master; Hugh Chamberlain, senior warden; George Philip, junior warden; Dale Boysen, treasurer; Fred Tyson, scribe; Rudolph Paquet, chancellor, and Don Shields, historian.

A labor-relations talk, designed to acquaint Michigan State College students with labor problems in the automotive industry, was sponsored by Delta Pi Sigma on May 18. Mr. Harold S. McFarland, Director of Labor Relations at the Oldsmobile Plant in Lansing, spoke to a large gathering of business administration students, members and pledges of Delta Pi Sigma, and interested faculty. Mr. McFarland explained the General Motors-CIO-UAW contract currently in force at the Oldsmobile plant. He also told of his specific work in settling grievances and placement of personnel within the plant. An informal discussion period closed the assembly.

On May 25, pledging activities were climaxed with a banquet and formal initiation at Hunt's Blue Room in East Lansing. Acceptance of 38 men as new members brought the total membership of Delta Pi Sigma to 57.

The first officers of Gamma Kappa Chapter are: head master, Robert I. Hodgson; senior warden, Hugh E. Chamberlain; junior warden, Leland G. Philp; scribe, Frederick J. Tyson; treasurer, Dale W. Boysen; historian, Donald B. Shields; chancellor, Rudolph P. Paquet, and DELTASIG correspondent, Ted M. Rusicki.

Those undergraduate members initiated on October 29, 1949 are: Harry Allen, Jr., Don F. Anderson, Robert B. Bacon, Ernest I. Blasky, Donald E. Bohnett, Dale W. Boysen, Bernard O. Gamma Lambda Chapter at Florida State University

THE SEVENTY-SEVENTH CHAPTER of Delta Sigma Pi, Gamma Lambda, was installed on the Florida State University campus on Saturday, December 3, 1949. This is our third chapter in the State of Florida, the other two being Beta Eta Chapter at the University of Florida, in Gainesville, and Beta Omega Chapter at the University of Miami, in Coral Gables. Gamma Lambda Chapter at Florida State University had the distinction of being the newest chapter in Delta Sigma Pi for the period of only one day, as the Gamma Mu Chapter at Tulane University in New Orleans was installed on the following day.

The ceremonies began in the morning with registration at the Cherokee Hotel in Tallahassee. A luncheon was served in the University Dining Hall and the ritualistic initiation was held in another university building near-by. Grand President Walter C. Sehm of St. Paul was the installing officer along with Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright of Chicago. The ritual team was comprised of: Grand President Sehm, Alpha Epsilon, head master; Edward W. Withorn, Kappa, senior warden; Emory A. Johnston, Kappa, junior warden; John Clark, Kappa, treasurer; Marcus M. Morris, Kappa, scribe; Edward E. Hale, Kappa, historian; Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright, Beta, senior guide, and Clifford C. Blaisdell, Jr., Kappa, junior guide.

Upon completion of the initiation ceremonies the members of Gamma Lambda Chapter and the visiting delegations returned to the Cherokee Hotel for the installation banquet. H. G. Wright served as toastmaster and the first speaker of the evening was the dean of men of Florida State University, Otis R. McBride, who welcomed the new chapter to the campus. The chairman of the Department of Commerce, George Heather was then called upon to relate the history of the department. Samuel L. Boggs, of Gamma Lambda Chapter, then told of the founding of the Beta Gamma Business Club which was our petitioning group at Florida State University. At this point in the program the assembly was privileged to hear an address by J. Edwin Larsen, the treasurer of the State of Florida, entitled "These Changing Times." The highlight of the evening came with the presentation of the charter and charge to Gamma Lambda Chapter by Grand President Walter C. Sehm. The acceptance of the charter was made by W. W. Hill, Jr., the head master. To close the program H. G. Wright introduced the various delegations which expressed their best wishes for the continued success of Gamma Lambda Chapter.

History of Florida State University

Florida State University at Tallahassee is an integral part of the capital city of Florida. Located in the northwest part of the state, Tallahassee has a population of 26,000. Florida State University's name has changed many times since its inception in the Florida Legislature in 1851, which gave authorization for the establishment of two state colleges, one east, and the other west, of the Suwanee River. The Seminary West of the Suwanee was opened in February of 1857 on the grounds of the former Florida Institute. In 1901 the Seminary consisted of three buildings: College Hall, the academic building; East Hall, the women's dormitory; and West Hall, the men's dormitory. The name was changed to Florida State College. After the Buckman Bill was passed in 1905, the institution became Florida Female College, and remained the same until 1909. The name was then changed to Florida State College for Women.

There was considerable growth and expansion between the years of 1909 to 1946. In 1946, the institution consisted of 13 academic buildings, 12 dormitories and 7 other functional buildings of other types to accommodate the 5,125 students attending that year. Of that number, facilities for 813 men had been obtained at Dale Mabry Air Base, renamed the Tallahassee Branch of the University of Florida. Governor

Millard Caldwell's bill, passed in the Florida Legislature on May 15, 1947, created another change in the general organization of this state institution of higher learning. On that date the institution became coeducational under its present name, Florida State University. Growth and progress have always distinguished Florida State University. The institution has grown from a seminary consisting of three buildings and an enrollment of approximately 150 to a university with a physical plant of 33 permanent structures and a student body of 5,512. A faculty and staff of about 1,000 comprise the teaching and administrative personnel. A Master Campus Plan, recently developed under the direction of President Doak S. Campbell, will do much to co-ordinate university expansion for the next 50 years.

Primary emphasis is placed on a highly qualified faculty and staff, scholarship, personal interest in the individual students, a carefully planned curriculum and an efficient and beautiful physical plant. At all times the general objective of service to the people of Florida and the South is the major guiding principle upon which the program of the university is based. Florida State University has seven major divisions: College of Arts and Sciences, School of Education, School of Home Economics, School of Music, School of Library Training and Service, Division of Applied Social Sciences and the Graduate School. The Division of Applied Social Sciences is made up of the Department of Commerce, Journalism, Public Administration, Restaurant and Hotel Management, and Social Work. A separate School of Business has been announced for next fall. Courses leading to a Master's Degree are provided in 24 areas and for the Doctorate in music, home economics and education. Extension service is offered in all fields in co-operation with the General Extension Division located in Gainesville.

An effective system of student personnel service has been developed under the general direction of the dean of student welfare. The university is a small community within itself. Located on the campus are a postoffice, bookstore, student bank, library, little theatre, laundry, dining halls, hospital, radio station, newspaper, bus service and police force. Campus life is regulated largely by the students themselves through their University Government Association. Florida State University is a member of the newly formed Dixie Conference which is based on the non-subsidization of athletes. The emblem of the university, with its three torches and motto of "Vires, Artes, Mores," symbolizes the purpose of Florida State University; to pass on the principles of strength, character and skill from one generation to another.

Departments of Commerce and Economics

The Department of Commerce as such was established in 1947 at the time the institution became coeducational. Prior to that time all of the courses offered in the commerce and economics fields had been under the College of Arts and Sciences which was organized in 1916. At the present time the Department of Commerce, headed by Dr. George G. Heather, is in the Division of Applied Social Sciences. The Department of Economics, headed by Dr. W. G. Shover, is in the College of Arts and Sciences. The Department of Commerce now offers a four-year curriculum leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science in Commerce. Graduate work is also available leading to the degree of Master of Science in Commerce. The Department of Economics, in conjunction with the College of Arts and Sciences, offers courses leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science. Graduate work is available leading to the degree of Master of Science.

THE INSTALLATION BANQUET of Gamma Lambda Chapter at Florida State University was held at the Cherokee Hotel in Tallahassee on December 3.

The curricula in both the Department of Commerce and the Department of Economics are designed to provide training for careers in the business world and to develop in the student intelligent understanding of his responsibilities as a member of a changing social and industrial order. Though recognizing the primary vocational and professional interest of the student, the departments also endeavor to provide for his well-rounded mental development. The curricula, therefore, provide and require general and cultural courses, as well as those of a more technical nature. Basic, advanced and specialized courses are offered in the several fields of commerce and economics. The Department of Commerce has a twofold purpose in the courses offered; namely, a coordinated series of courses designed expressly for the student who does not expect to practice accounting as a profession and courses designed to enable the student to become a professional accountant for either private or public practice. The Department of Economics offers a varied program, including courses in principles, banking, marketing, government economics and finance, transportation, investments, public utilities and many others.

The combined staffs of the Department of Commerce and the Department of Economics consist of approximately 30 experienced professors and assistants with Bachelor's, Master's, and Doctor's Degrees from colleges and universities throughout the country. Due to the rapid advance made by the Departments of Commerce and Economics during the past two years, they now rate among the most important in the university. Many new courses have been added during these two years and plans for still others to be added in the near future are under way. It is the earnest desire of Dr. Heather and Dr. Shover, together with the staffs of their respective departments, to place their departments among the foremost in the nation.

The History of the Beta Gamma Club

With the advent of male students on the campus of Florida State University in September of 1946, a large number of them chose the fields of commerce and economics for their college majors. There soon developed among some of these men a feeling that they should be united into an organization which would promote scholarship, brotherhood and fellowship while in college, and better business methods and ethics after graduation, and Grand Secretary-Treasurer Wright was invited to visit their campus which he did in December, 1948, and explained the objectives of Delta Sigma Pi. Under the leadership of a few men with these ideals in mind, word was sent out that a meeting would be held on the night of January 12, 1949, for all those interested in forming a business club with the ultimate object of petitioning a national professional fraternity. To this notice about 65 men responded by attending the organizational meeting. Temporary officers were elected at the first meeting and the club was thus established. At the next meeting, held on January 19, Edwin M. Clark, former head master of Kappa Chapter, was presented to explain and discuss the principles of Delta Sigma Pi. Sam Boggs was appointed to write to The Central Office of Delta Sigma Pi for information regarding a petition to that fraternity. Temporary officers were elected at the meeting held on February 2 to serve until details of organization could be worked out and put into effect. Sam Boggs was elected president of the group, while Ed Gay was made secretary.

After the election of officers, the next question to come before the group was that of selecting a name. After many names were suggested, the name Beta Gamma was chosen for the club by a vote of the membership. A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws for the club. This committee consisted of two students, Paul Griffith and Charles Mathews, and a Delta Sigma Pi Alumnus, Edwin M. Clark. On February 9, the constitution and by-laws were adopted by the members of the club after much debate on some of the provisions. The basis for proceeding with the remainder of the details of organization was then established. The chief business on February 23 was the election of officers as provided in the newly adopted constitution. These first permanent officers were elected to serve through the remainder of the school year. They were: Sam Boggs, president; George Robinson, vice-president; Tom Kelly, second vice-president; Ed Gay, secretary; William Hill, treasurer; and Paul Griffith, historian.

Several excellent programs have been presented. On these programs have appeared prominent business and professional men from Tallahassee. Outstanding among these men have been Mr. P. M. Schuchart, Florida manager of the Southeastern Telephone Company, who spoke on "Industrial Relations and Corporation Financing"; and Mr. Lewis H. Tribble, attorney for the Florida State Comptroller's Office. Other guests on the programs have included the president of the Tallahassee Chamber of Commerce and members of the university faculty. All of these programs have instilled interest and enthusiasm in the individual members for a continued life and the complete success of the club. Another project of the club was to offer its services to the university Department of Commerce in any capacity. The Beta Gamma Club started with 14 members and through an extensive campaign the membership has been built up to 50 members. Meetings are held weekly and special meetings are called at regular intervals. The assistance and full cooperation of Edwin M. Clark, Robert Travis, faculty advisor of the club and a member of Alpha Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, and other members of the university faculty have aided and made possible the Gamma Lambda Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

The first officers of Gamma Lambda Chapter are: Head Master, W. W. Hill, Jr.; Senior Warden, Edward L. Gay; Junior Warden, William C. Roberts; Scribe, Wiley L. Watkins; Treasurer, Noble Warren; Historian, John L. Maher; and Chancellor, John P. Griffith.

Gamma Mu Chapter at Tulane University

COMPLETING A MEMORABLE WEEKEND in the annals of Delta Sigma Pi was the installation of Gamma Mu Chapter at Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana, on Sunday, December 4, 1949. The other event in this same weekend was the installation of Gamma Lambda Chapter at Florida State University the previous day. Likewise, this was our third chapter in the State of Louisiana as was Gamma Lambda the third chapter in the State of Florida. The other chapters in Louisiana are Beta Zeta at the University of Louisiana in Baton Rouge and Beta Psi at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

The St. Charles Hotel in New Orleans was the scene of the installation ceremonies which began in the early afternoon, followed by the banquet in the evening. Greetings were extended to the new chapter by John H. Stibbs, director of student life at Tulane University. Grand Secretary-Treasurer

H. G. Wright ably served again as toastmaster. Brother Robert W. French, dean of the College of Commerce and Business Administration of Tulane told of the college's early history. The founding of the Commerce Club, our petitioning group at Tulane, was the topic of the talk given by Edwin B. Angel of Gamma Mu Chapter. The long awaited moment arrived when Grand President Sehm presented the Gamma Mu charter to Head Master Paul F. Dastugue, Jr. In its acceptance, Brother Dastugue made some very appropriate remarks on behalf of the chapter. The delegations were then introduced and they, too, extended the new chapter a warm welcome into our brotherhood.

Grand President Walter C. Sehm of St. Paul served as installing officer and was the head master of the ritual team. Grand Secretary-Treasurer H. G. Wright of Chicago assisted him and acted as the senior guide. The other members of the ritual team were: Grand Council Member William R. Merrick, Beta Iota, senior warden; past Grand President Kenneth B. White, Gamma, junior guide; LeRoy R. Hayden, Alpha Beta, junior warden; Dewey O. Furr, Beta Zeta, scribe; and Henry H. Leiva, Beta Zeta, historian. The huge delegation from Louisiana State University and the carload of Deltasigs from Dallas, Texas, helped to make this installation most impressive.

History of Tulane University

Tulane University had its beginning in 1834 when seven young physicians banded together to found a medical college in New Orleans. Yellow fever and cholera were the twin curses of the city in that period and a determination on the group's part to combat the diseases more successfully led to the establishment of the college. The college was later to grow into the University of Louisiana and subsequently into the privately endowed, non-sectarian Tulane University of today.

THE NORMAN MAYER BUILDING at Tulane University which houses the College of Commerce and Business Administration and the Library of the College.

Its first class, which was given in human anatomy, was taught in a downtown church and its president was an Episcopal clergyman, the Reverend Francis Lister Hawks, rector of Christ Church.

The university received its name from Mr. Paul Tulane of Princeton, New Jersey, who made his fortune in and around New Orleans and who bequeathed $1,000,000 to the institution in 1882. His gift made at a time when the South was financially bankrupt as a result of the war between the states, provided a revenue to the virtually moribund institution. Through his gift, a reorganization of the university was made. It was separated from the state and its affairs were entrusted to a self-perpetuating board of administrators. The institution in 1836 awarded the first degree in medicine ever given in the South. Although it began with a scientific tradition, the liberal arts were not long neglected. The College of Arts and Sciences had its inception in 1847, the same year that the law school began as a department of the university. In 1858, there was established a department for the training of businessmen. Although its life was relatively short, it is regarded as the forerunner of the growth of professional colleges of commerce and business administration in the United States. The College of Commerce and Business Administration was not formally inaugurated until 1914.

In 1886, Mrs. Josephine Louise Newcomb donated $100,000 to the Tulane Educational Fund, which was to be used in establishing the H. Sophie Newcomb College in the Tulane University of Louisiana. By her will in 1901, the University became the residuary legatee, and received an additional bequest for Newcomb College of about $2,700,000. These gifts enabled the Tulane administrators to round out the ideal of the university by creation of an institution which would give to women all the educational advantages, which before had been offered only to men. In 1885, the Graduate School, then known as the Department of Philosophy, conferred its first doctor's degrees. In rapid succession, there followed the Graduate School of Medicine, the College of Engineering, the College of Commerce and Business Administration, the School of Social Work and the Middle American Research Institute.

Tulane University has no desire to increase in size although it has no fear of normal growth. It has a great desire for qualitative improvements in all of its activities, even those which have already reached a high level of distinction. As a means of this improvement, it seeks first of all endowment for the support of teaching and research, for the maintenance of its equipment, and for large increases in scholarship funds, so that young men and women who have character, ambition and ability, but limited financial resources, may enjoy to the fullest the opportunities the university has to offer.

College of Commerce and Business Administration

Any historical statement of education for business leadership at Tulane University must begin at a period over a hundred years ago. In 1848, the Board of the University of Louisiana created a Chair of Commerce and Statistics in the then struggling young university. Mr. James D. Bownson De Bow was named as the first professor to hold the Chair. At the same time, because of his friendship for Professor De Bow and his interest in the idea, Mr. Maunsell White provided for the financial support of the Chair by contributing 56 parcels of land in the city of New Orleans, the income of which was to be used to support the Chair and for the creation of a Commerce Library.

In 1901, Dr. Morton Arnold Aldrich came to Tulane University as associate professor of economics. He proceeded almost immediately with a plan to establish in New Orleans a College of Commerce and Business Administration. He aroused the interest of many of the active members of the business community in a study of the early economic and business affairs of the country through the creation of the Tulane Society of Economics. Through the efforts of Dr. Aldrich, now retired after 25 years as dean, the College of Commerce and Business Administration of Tulane University was established in September, 1914, by vote of the Board of Administrators of the Tulane Educational Fund. This action was made possible by the generous cooperation of the New Orleans Association of Commerce, the Society of Louisiana Public Accountants, and 222 persons, firms and corporations who guaranteed the expenses of the college during its first six years.

The college is one of the 14 charter members of the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, organized in 1916 for the promotion and improvement of higher business education in North America. During the period from its organization through the session of 1939-1940, the College of Commerce and Business Administration operated two divisions, the Undergraduate Division and the Evening Division. In 1950, two additional divisions were established, the Graduate Division and the Division of Economic and Business Research. Effective with the 1942-1943 session, the work of the Evening Division was merged with the adult education program of the University College. The Undergraduate Division offers a four-year course leading to the degree of Bachelor of Business Administration. The Graduate Division offers graduate courses leading to the degree of Master of Business Administration.

On February 19, 1942, the College of Commerce and Business Administration moved into the new building erected especially for its use. The construction and maintenance of the building were provided for by a generous bequest from Mrs. Norman Mayer. The Norman Mayer Memorial and the Norman Mayer Library now have been combined into one structure. The exterior of the building is of Verdford limestone on the front and sides. The rear exterior is of limestone colored brick. The interior walls are of plaster and the ceilings are of acoustical material or plaster. The floors throughout the buildings are covered with asphalt except for the terrazzo surfaces in the foyers. A complete air-conditioning system for the entire building, completed at the time the second unit was constructed, has been installed. The building is lighted in different areas with either incandescent or fluorescent fixtures. There are 25 faculty offices, one administrative office, eight classrooms, one assembly hall and two conference and seminar rooms.

Much credit is due to the two deans, Dr. Aldrich, for the founding of the college, and to his successor, Dr. Leslie J. Buchan, who has been instrumental toward building it to its present size. Dr. Buchan has been succeeded by Dr. Robert W. French of the University of Texas. Dr. French is a member of Delta Sigma Pi and of our Beta Kappa Chapter. Today, the College of Commerce and Business Administration of Tulane University enjoys a high rating in the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business.

The History of the Commerce Club

Efforts to establish an organization of students of commerce and business administration at Tulane University date back to the old Commerce Club that came into being during the war years. Instrumental in the origin and development of the club were the men of the Naval Officer Training Program, the V-12 at Tulane, who at that time composed a sizeable portion of the student body. The club was short-lived, however, terminating with the end of the war. A year or two later, efforts were resumed to establish a student organization within the College of Commerce and Business Administration with fraternal affiliation. A faculty committee was appointed, headed by Mr. F. Santry Reed, professor of marketing. After consideration of the problem, the committee decided that the students should be the ones to initiate action on a project of this nature since the success or failure of the resulting organization would depend on student body support.

In January, 1949, at a meeting of the Commerce Student Academic Board, the subject arose again. This time it was back in student hands. Paul Dastugue was appointed to investigate the advisability of reactivating the Commerce Club with possible professional fraternity affiliation at a later date. On March 15, 1949, at a meeting attended by 50 commerce students, the Commerce Club of Tulane University was organized until such time as affiliation with a professional commerce fraternity could be secured. The following Commerce Club officers were elected: Head Master, Paul Dastugue; Senior Warden, Phil Harris; Junior Warden, Joseph Miceli; Treasurer, Royce Kaupp; Scribe, Thomas Ryan; Historian, Mike Schnittker; Correspondent, Frank Patterson. After an extensive study, the members of the Commerce Club elected to become affiliated with Delta Sigma Pi. The officers of the club sought the assistance of its faculty advisors, Dr. Harold Heck, professor of foreign trade, and Dr. Henry Owen, associate professor of economics, both alumni of Beta Zeta Chapter, as well as the Beta Zeta Chapter at Louisiana State University, in formulating by-laws in close alignment with Delta Sigma Pi principles and practices. Joseph Miceli, head of the committee on by-laws, modeled the club's by-laws after those of the Beta Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. The work of the committee on by-laws was approved by the members at one of the regular Tuesday night meetings of the club.

Twice a year the students of the College of Commerce and Business Administration sponsor a dance. In conjunction with the dance of April 29, the Commerce Club sponsored the selection of the "Commerce Queen." Miss Mary Anne Hebert, a commerce senior and a debutante of the season, was selected by the commerce student body as "Commerce Queen." In recognition of this honor, the Commerce Club awarded her a loving cup. A great deal of interest and favorable publicity resulted. The Commerce Club held its first banquet on May 5 at the famous La Louisiane Restaurant in the heart of the French Quarter. The officers and faculty advisor of the Beta Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at Louisiana State University accepted our invitation to attend the banquet and offered their wholehearted support. On May 13, H. G. Wright, Grand Secretary-Treasurer of Delta Sigma Pi, visited the Tulane University campus, at which time he met with the officers of the club and faculty advisors to discuss the feasibility of establishing a chapter at Tulane and to instruct them in the procedure to be followed. The formal petition for membership was completed during the summer session.

The club held a second banquet at the La Louisiane Restaurant on October 6, 1949. The principal speaker was Mr. C. C. Walther, president of the New Orleans Chamber of Commerce and well-known business and civic leader. He was introduced by Dr. Robert W. French, dean of the College of Commerce and Business Administration of Tulane University, who is an alumnus of Beta Kappa Chapter at Texas. As part of its professional program, the Commerce Club made a field trip to the new Coca Cola Bottling Plant in New Orleans. Two weeks prior to the formal pledging of the Commerce Club members into Delta Sigma Pi, Dean French spoke at a business meeting on the requisites of a good chapter and a chapter program. On November 18, the members of the Commerce Club were formally pledged to Delta Sigma Pi by its faculty advisor, Harold Heck, an alumnus of Beta Zeta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. This was the last formal meeting before the installation ceremonies on December 4.

Weekly Payroll Analysis and Man-Hour Study

By Harry K. Houchins, Beta Nu Chapter, Assistant Secretary-Treasurer
Hydraulic-Press Brick Company, St. Louis, Missouri

THE COST OF LABOR is one of the most important and sometimes one of the most difficult factors to control in the manufacture and processing of articles for sale. In many cases it has become the largest of the three costs (labor, material, and overhead) that make up the total cost of production. Because of its importance to foremen, supervisors, superintendents and other operating officials, many large corporations have spent considerable time and money to devise methods of labor cost control. However, despite the importance of labor costs, many small and medium sized concerns have only meager information regarding the efficiency of their employees. Some executives feel they cannot afford the cost of getting this information into proper form to do them enough good to warrant the expenditure. Others feel that it would require changing their present accounting system, and they have not reached the place where they are ready to do that, although it is possible a change might be warranted by the benefits that could be secured.

Operating officials are primarily interested in the efficiency of labor rather than in the rate, because rates are pretty much the same in identical industries due to labor unions, but the efficiency of employees can vary greatly from plant to plant, and from week to week. For the purpose of setting forth this information, we have prepared a form, which is reproduced below, giving pertinent man-hour information and also average hourly earnings and overtime data.

The payroll chart has been prepared by our company to show the weekly man-hour figures for our several plants in this area with the distribution divided between production labor and repair labor, by departments. The figures shown on the report in brackets on the line with "Production" and "Repairs" are the total man-hours for those divisions of the payroll. This data is in addition to our regular cost accounting system and as we were already distributing our payroll money to the several cost accounts, it meant only the additional task of distributing the man-hours in the same manner and balancing them just as we balance the money. It was fairly easy to secure from the payroll the total overtime or premium pay and subtract this from the total for the plant to get the amount of straight time wages. The next step was a matter of simple division to secure the per cent of overtime wages to total wages. Having the man-hours for each plant by departments and knowing our production and delivery (or shipment) figures, then the production and repair man-hours per thousand were calculated.

We have been using this system since 1947 and we are now able to not only show the figures for the current week but also this year to date and the prior year. The main usefulness of this report is in comparing it with some other period or periods, and the fact that we can now compare it with two periods of extended length means that a poor weekly report should cause immediate investigation of all the causes for the unsatisfactory showing. The reports can be of real value whenever a major change is made in production procedure because there is a comparison between plant operations "before" and "after." A piece of labor saving machinery should mean less man-hours in that department, and the replacement of an old machine with an up-to-date one should certainly reduce the repair man-hours, if it doesn't do anything else. In our business, we use "Average" costs in preference to "Standards" as the word is commonly used, and in the preparation of this man-hour report we follow the same plan, but companies using standard costs can also develop standard man-hours and use these for comparison, as well as the total of "Average" man-hours.

With many businesses, "quantity manufactured" is different for each department and, to a certain extent, that is true with us, but it is not easy to secure the production figures for all departments each week and the one figure answers and enables us to prepare a very helpful report. This carries a suggestion that even if every bit of desired data cannot be secured the report can still be of genuine value.

We make two kinds of clay products (brick and tile) at one of our plants and we have worked out a ratio which enables us to determine a fixed figure for our "manufacture" and "delivery," with the ratio different for the two items. Some other companies who manufacture two or more articles

Schujahn Heads Harvard Advanced Management Class

E. L. SCHUJAHN, Wisconsin, past Grand President of Delta Sigma Pi and a director of sales of General Mills, was elected president of his class of business executives attending the 15th Advanced Management Program at Harvard University. Some 69 companies sent executives to attend the 13 week program which covered such general subjects as cost and financial management, labor relations, production management, marketing and sales, and the specialized subjects of business and American economy, and administration practice. The average age of these officials was 41 years, and it is estimated that the 69 companies spent almost $500,000 to send their executives for this 13 weeks of training.

The businessmen lived in dormitories, and had 18 hours of class work per week. All of the class work was conducted in the forenoon with plant tours, special seminars, speakers, and other events of this nature in the afternoons. The entire program is based on the case method of study and some of the cases are 88 pages in length. The only departure from the typical college program is that there are no grades and no examinations (a student's paradise).

Prior to Brother Schujahn's election to the presidency of this class there was a short but lively campaign conducted by various groups on behalf of their candidates. A complete slate of officers were elected and committees were appointed to arrange for speakers, seminars, a class book, and various social affairs.

Brother Schujahn is from Minneapolis where he is a sales director of General Mills, Inc. He promotes their products in the grocery division, such as Wheaties, Cheerios, etc. He has been connected with General Mills since he graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1924. He served Delta Sigma Pi as its Grand President from 1930-36, and as a member of the Grand Council for many years.

Philadelphia Alumni Club Extend Their Program

DURING THE SUMMER the Philadelphia Alumni Club held their picnic at Mermaid Lake. This picnic featured a baseball game between the alumni and the members of the active chapters in Philadelphia. Even with the able umpiring of alumnus, Jimmy Waldron, the alumni bowed their heads in defeat. The first meeting this fall presented past Grand President Allen L. Fowler who gave an inspiring report on what transpired at the Grand Chapter Congress in Baltimore.

Our Founders' Day Dinner was held at the University Club and the guest speaker for the evening was Morris Wolf, head of the department of social studies at Girard College, member of the World Affairs Council and president of the Philadelphia Ethical Society. His topic, "Our Responsibility as World Leaders," was presented in such a forceful and enthusiastic manner that, we, his audience were as if in a trance. Thomas J. Mullaney acted as toastmaster, and Brothers Fowler, Chamberlain, and Doubman contributed to the program with a few remarks.

Approximately 30 couples attended the 62nd annual production of the Mask and Wig Club on Thanksgiving Eve. Following the show the group reconvened at the Beta Nu Chapter House to partake of nourishment and discuss the show just seen. So again we say thanks to Bill Rohrer for taking it upon himself to obtain the tickets for the party.

When in Philadelphia on Tuesday or Thursday, you are invited to stop at Leed's Restaurant on Broad Street above Locust and enjoy the company of brother Deltasigs while having lunch.—FRED H. OESCHGER

New Detroit President Receives Deltasig Welcome

THE VERY REV. C. J. STEINER, S. J., new president of the University of Detroit, was officially welcomed at a reception in the Hotel Book-Cadillac, October 9, by the university's alumni association. Three Deltasigs were prominent in directing the arrangements: Eugene Cadieux, president, Detroit Alumni Club; George Rakovan, university director of alumni relations; Fr. Steiner, William B. O'Regan, assistant dean, College of Commerce and Finance, evening division.

DELTA SIGS WELCOME new president of the University of Detroit, the Very Reverend C. J. Steiner, S. J. Left to right: Eugene Cadieux, president of the Detroit Alumni Club; George Rakovan, university director of alumni relations; Father Steiner; and William B. O'Regan, assistant dean of the College of Commerce and Finance at Detroit.

THE CHICAGO ALUMNI CLUB celebrated Founders' Day, November 7, at Brother Toffenetti's new restaurant in Chicago. Grand President Walter C. Sehm of St. Paul was the guest of honor and principal speaker of the evening. At the speakers' table, left to right: R. H. Weber, vice-president of the Chicago Alumni Club; H. O. Walthers, past Grand President of Delta Sigma Pi; W. C. Sehm, Grand President; H. G. Wright, Grand Secretary-Treasurer; K. H. Hobbie, toastmaster; R. O. Lewis, president of the Chicago Alumni Club; P. G. Howard, head master of Beta Chapter; E. Nendick, head master of Alpha Omega Chapter; and M. Loder, past president of the Chicago Alumni Club.

Sehm Guest Speaker at Chicago Founders' Day

THE Chicago Alumni Club of Delta Sigma Pi celebrated "Founders' Day" in grand style this year. Over 150 brothers gathered together at Brother Toffenetti's Restaurant to participate in this celebration. We were very fortunate in having Brother Ken Hobbie take over the role of toastmaster. Brother Hobbie introduced many well-known brothers and among them, our Grand Secretary-Treasurer, H. G. Wright. Brother Wright was called upon to introduce the main speaker of the evening and it was indeed a pleasure to have him present our Grand President Walter Sehm who came down from St. Paul especially to be with us on this occasion.

Grand President Sehm related some of the history of the fraternity and brought back pleasant memories to many of the men who attended. He enumerated some of the happenings of the recent Grand Chapter Congress and gave us all a preview of what the national fraternity plans to do in the coming year. There were many others who were called upon to say a few words; among them the President of our Alumni Club, Brother Robert Lewis. Brother Lewis expressed his gratitude for the fine cooperation of the members of the Chicago Alumni Club in seeing that as many Deltasigs as possible attended this meeting.

Not only were the alumni present, but also many of the officers, brothers and pledges of the three active chapters located in the Chicago Area.

It was indeed a festive occasion and it will be one which is long remembered. Our only regret was that each and every member of Delta Sigma Pi could not be with us that evening to enjoy this "Founders' Day" celebration.—D. B. THOMSON.

Houston Alumni Club Reactivates Full Program

PLANS FOR REORGANIZATION and reactivation of the Houston Alumni Club of Delta Sigma Pi were made at a "roundup" meeting of Houston Delstasigs held Thursday, August 18, 1949, at Bill Williams Chicken House in Houston, Texas. Thirty alumni of Delta Sigma Pi attended and renewed acquaintances and friendships with brothers they had not seen, in some cases, for many years. A fellowship cocktail hour was followed by a chicken dinner. John Murray, Beta Upsilon, gave the invocation which was followed by group singing of the fraternity song led by Chuck Everett, Beta Iota. Marion Sprague, Beta Upsilon, acted as toastmaster for the evening.

Randolph Mills, Beta Kappa, was introduced as president of the club when it was active two years ago. Explaining that only five alumni had been in attendance at the last meeting, Brother Mills expressed his exuberance over the attendance at the "roundup." Henry Guthrie and Ludwell Jones, both of Beta Kappa, were also introduced as past presidents. A short business meeting was held during which a nominations committee was appointed to report at the next meeting. The committee was composed of Lester Elliott, chairman, Tom Murphy, Felix Driskill (all of Beta Kappa), Jim Marrs and Albert Chiles of Beta Iota, and Ira Strickler of Beta Epsilon.

It was decided that regular meetings of the Houston Alumni Club would be held the second Thursday of every month at 6:30 P.M. at a place to be selected by the Attendance and Arrangements Committee appointed for that purpose. Named to serve on this committee were Chuck Everett, chairman, and Paul Huston of Beta Iota, Arthur Mills of Beta Kappa, and Roger Powers, Gamma.

The meeting adjourned for fellowship and cards with the keynote that a definite attempt would be made by all to contact all Deltasigs in Houston for attendance at the next meeting, September 8, when election of officers and formulation of plans and events for the coming year as well as an entertaining program would be on the calendar. Alumni were present from active chapters at Baylor, Texas University, Texas Tech, Denver, Colorado, Missouri, Florida, L.S.U., Northwestern, Rider and Boston Universities. Cigars were awarded as prizes to men present with the lowest Deltasig chapter numbers from each of the universities represented, to all Yellow Dogs, to Life Members, to employees of Humble Oil & Refining Co. and Arthur Andersen and Company, being the firms best represented, to H. S. Gross, visiting brother from New Jersey, and then to all others who had not theretofore received one! When in Houston, all members and alumni of Delta Sigma Pi are extended an insistent invitation to join in the activities of the Houston Alumni Club.—MARION W. SPRAGUE

Endowed Professorship to Honor Gustave Klausner

PROFESSOR GUSTAVE K. KLAUSNER, long-standing alumnus of Beta Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, is to be signally honored in his 35 year of service on the faculty of the School of Commerce and Finance of St. Louis University. The proposal by a group of civic leaders and university alumni to establish an endowed professorship bearing Professor Klausner's name was approved by the Very Rev. Paul C. Reinert, S.J., president of the university, and a city wide campaign to secure the necessary funds is now underway.

GUSTAVE KLAUSNER,
St. Louis

Francis C. Flynn, another alumnus of Beta Sigma Chapter and immediate past president of the Commerce and Finance Alumni Association, was selected by the initiating committee to serve as general chairman of the campaign. Flynn, an attorney and a Commerce School graduate of 1932, stated that the group looked for a material means of honoring Professor Klausner's long and unselfish service.

In the "Gustave K. Klausner" Endowed Professorship—the first such endowment ever to be established at St. Louis University—a significant memento was believed to have been found. Civic organizations, business firms and individual admirers will supplement the alumni of the school in driving for the estimated required fund of $250,000. "This professorship in Mr. Klausner's name will serve as a perpetual memorial to his character and ideals," Father Reinert declared in endorsing the drive. "Through the top-flight academic instruction it underwrites, year after year it will carry on the influence he has extended over the past 35 years."

Professor Klausner, began his continuous career at St. Louis University as a student in 1910, adding business studies to his previous higher education. Born in Wilmo, Russia, August 7, 1875, he had received his original diploma from the University of Kiev. Until his departure from Russia following the revolution of 1907, he served as a representative for a British woolen firm, and on arriving in St. Louis was employed by a clothing company here. When the School of Commerce and Finance opened in 1910, Klausner enrolled in the evening school, retaining his business connection. In 1913 he received his commerce degree, one of the 10 members of the first class graduated from the School of Commerce and Finance.

He received his master's degree in 1914, and in the following year was appointed lecturer and assistant in accounting in the evening school. Klausner held that position until 1920, when he became an instructor in the day school. He was named assistant professor in 1927, associate professor in 1938, and professor of accounting in 1943. His particular fields of specialization have been cost accounting and budgetary control. In September of 1948 he was awarded the university's gold Fleur de Lis for outstanding service. Rev. Bernard W. Dempsey, S. J., regent of the School of Commerce and Finance and an honorary member of Delta Sigma Pi, presented Professor Klausner with the award, noting that "a University can be no better than the men who daily walk into its classrooms, and a great university must have men who teach not so much in terms of what they know as in terms of what they are."

J. H. MacDonald Elected Vice-Pres. of A. M. A.

JOHN H. MACDONALD, New York, administrative vice-president of the National Broadcasting Company, has been elected vice-president of the finance division of the American Management Association. In addition Brother MacDonald is a member of the board of the association. Brother MacDonald, who has been active in the A.M.A. for more than 20 years in the office management, personnel and financial divisions was in charge of the two day conference held last fall. Another one of Brother MacDonald's activities is the Controllers Institute of America. In 1946-47 he was president of that organization and in 1947-48 he was chairman of the board.

DELTASIGS OF ACHIEVEMENT

HARRY READ, Northwestern Assistant Sec.-Treas. of the C.I.O.

HARRY READ, Northwestern, who is executive assistant to James B. Carey, the secretary-treasurer of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, started his career as a reporter for one of the Chicago newspapers, the Chicago American. Subsequently he became the assistant city editor and later the executive city editor of this same newspaper. Later in his newspaper career, which lasted nine years, he became the night city editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner.

During these many years in news work, Brother Read came of the belief that "an orderly society can only stem from an organized society," and that led him to the labor movement in 1937. At that time he became active in the American Newspaper Guild and later he went to work for the C. I. O. in Michigan, where there are 700,000 members of that union. He spent five years there before he was brought to Washington, D.C. as the executive assistant to James B. Carey.

HARRY READ, Northwestern-Chicago

Brother Read's first assignment was as a consultant to Secretary of State Stettinius and the other American delegates to the United Nations Conference in San Francisco in 1945. Since that time he has visited Europe representing the C. I. O. and has visited many universities as the official spokesman for the C.I.O. Just recently he concluded a three year period as special consultant to General Robert Johnson, president of Johnson and Johnson, and a number of other businessmen who have recently published a book on the subject of human relations.

Brother Read is the proud father of two sons and a daughter. One of his sons has a degree in business administration from the University of Chicago, while the other has a M.A. in bacteriology. His daughter, who is the youngest, is at present in her senior year at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., and is majoring in education. Brother Read is very active in the Washington Alumni Club of Delta Sigma Pi and assists the Mu Chapter whenever he is called upon to do so.

JOHN F. MANNION, New York V. P. Continental Ill. Nat. Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago

AMONG DELTA SIGMA PI'S distinguished alumni, John F. Mannion, New York, ranks high by holding the position of vice-president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago which is reputed as being the largest bank in the world under one roof. Brother Mannion first came to Chicago in 1926 as a credit man with the Continental and Commercial National Bank which was later consolidated, first with the Commercial Trust and Savings Bank, and later with the Illinois Merchants Trust Company to become the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. In 1929, he returned to the East to become a credit man of Trust Company of New Jersey. In 1930, however, he returned to Chicago and the Continental National Bank and Trust Co. His promotions were rapid after his return as he was elected assistant cashier in 1933, second vice-president in 1940, and vice-president in 1943.

Brother Mannion did not expend all of his energies in Chicago, however, for he served as investigator in the credit department of Mechanics and Metals National Bank, investigator of the Ellis Reporting System, and credit man of Catlin and Company, all of which are in the East. Brother Mannion is also a trustee of De Paul University in Chicago, and has spoken at banquets of our Alpha Omega Chapter there. His interests are further varied by the fact that he is a director of the Hospital Service Corporation which is also the Blue Cross Plan for Hospital Care in Chicago. He also belongs to the Union League Club and Midway Club of Chicago, and the Dairyman's Country Club of Boulder Junction, Wisconsin.

Brother Mannion was born in New York City and attended New York University where he became a member of the Alpha Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi in 1923. He graduated from there in 1925 with a bachelor's degree in commercial science. His home is now in Oak Park, Illinois, a suburb of Chicago, and he is married and has five children, three girls and two boys.

HARRY L. WYLIE, Ohio State, Asst. Sec.-Treas. Pure Oil Co.

BORN IN COLUMBUS, OHIO, on June 1, 1902, Harry L. Wylie received his early education in Columbus public schools and graduated from Ohio State University in 1925. He is a member of Delta Sigma Pi, Nu chapter at Ohio State University, and Beta Gamma Sigma. Before his graduation from college, while working on a master's thesis, he visited The Pure Oil Company offices in Columbus, Ohio, for the purpose of getting data on the oil industry. He became interested in The Pure Oil Company and apparently they became interested in him as he joined their Auditing staff in 1924. The Company moved their offices to Chicago in 1926 and he was invited to join their Chicago staff. In 1929, he was made Employment and Office Manager, then Assistant Personnel Director. In 1935 he became Chief Accountant, in 1938, Budget Director and in 1945, he was made Assistant to the Vice-President. In 1947 he was elected Assistant Treasurer and in 1948, he was elected Assistant Secretary-Treasurer. He has been in the oil industry and with The Pure Oil Company 25 years.

In 1936, concurrent with his business experience, he was invited to lecture at the Central Y.M.C.A. College and DePaul University in Chicago. He became assistant professor of Business Organization (and Finance) and headed the Department of Personnel Management at the Y.M.C.A. College. He also lectured at Northwestern University. In 1941, he was asked to become a permanent member of the faculty at Northwestern where he is presently professor of Management.

In 1936, he also started in the management consulting business and he has been engaged in that work in his own name since then. He does aptitude testing work for several insurance companies, industrial and supervisory training for several of Chicago's leading companies. He has written two textbooks, "Practical Office Management" and "Office Organization and Management" published by Prentice-Hall, Inc. He has had over 100 articles printed in trade, professional and industrial publications. He has also written several booklets on Management and Industrial Relations and contributed to several publications. In 15 years he has made over 500 public addresses before educational, professional, fraternal and civic groups.

He is past president of the Chicago Chapter and past director and 1st vice-president of the National Office Management Association. He is a member of Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry, American Management Association, Adult Educational Council, Ohio State Association, American Petroleum Institute, Independent Petroleum Association of America, and other trade and civic organizations.

In 1923, he married Mary Ellen Napier, has two children—a son, 17 years of age, who is a senior at Evanston High School, and a married daughter who resides in New York City. He resides at 2332 Central Park Avenue, Evanston, Illinois, and his hobbies are gardening, bridge, books and “walking for pleasure.”

in their plants might also be able to work out a common denominator which will enable them to use this plan. However, it is realized that any form or set of forms has definite limitations as to its acceptance, but some portion of the plan may be usable by another company to prepare a weekly analysis of their plant man-hour efficiency.

Sometimes “production management” may feel it is advisable to work overtime and thereby effect a saving in man-hours per unit. “Average hourly earnings” are helpful at this point in indicating what effect the increased production schedule has on the average hourly rate when overtime is worked.

If Non-Productive labor is a large item, it could be subdivided, but for our purposes it is entirely satisfactory to lump it in one sum for each plant. Payroll money and man-hours used for capital accounts, such as plant construction, is not included in plant figures but is set out at the bottom of the report.

This Weekly Analysis has been particularly helpful to us due to its compactness and the fact that it requires a minimum amount of time and expense to prepare each week. It appears to the writer that it could be adapted to a single plant with the main departments making the top headings and the operations within the department used as headings on the left-hand side.

CHAPTERS

WESTERN RESERVE

A STEAK AND CORN ROAST opened the social season of the Beta Tau Chapter on August 28. The rain poured down over Cleveland Metropolitan Park but it did not hinder the high spirits of the brothers. The first professional meeting of the year was held at the University Club, September 23. Brother Jones of the Northeastern Ohio Alumni Club was the speaker. He spoke to the brothers on the history of Delta Sigma Pi. Refreshments and card playing followed the speech.

Beta Tau Chapter Birthday Dinner was celebrated on October 13 in the Western Reserve Faculty Dining Room. Brother C. Wilson Randle, dean of the Western Reserve University School of Business Administration, was the speaker. Dean Randle told us of the part our school is playing in the community and of its efforts to have the best faculty and School of Business Administration in the East. Also, Dean Randle is an accomplished joke teller but he ran a close race with Master of Ceremonies Albin Tercek. Brother Edward G. Pryatel, Professional Committee Chairman, planned the affair.

Forest View Park was the site of the Beta Tau Chapter Rush Party on October 21. This party has gone down in history as one of the best ever given by the Deltasigs. The credit for the fine food and music goes to Master of Festivities Robert Andree, and his committee Brothers Austin Cannon, James Chodkowski, Kenneth Kondas. Too bad we only bring pledges in twice a year.

We were honored by the presence of Brother George Spanagel, Northeastern Ohio Alumni Club President, at our Founders' Day Dinner Dance November 5 at the Penthouse of the Theatrical Grill. Chicken dinners plus orchids for my lady made the event a big hit. Brothers danced to the smooth music of Jack Schwarzer's combo and Moskow Mules made their debut into Deltasig life. This affair was another feather in the caps of our social committee. The Deltasigs are Western Reserve's league leading bowlers. After six weeks of competition, the Deltasigs lead the other 12 teams. Outstanding bowlers are Head Master Steve Paranka, and Brother Dick Perzanowski, who incidentally is the University's leading roller. The Deltasig football team suffered its only defeat at the hands of the Newman Club, who scored on a pass in the last 30 seconds of the game. Long to be remembered are the crashing line plays of Brother Perzanowski, and the glue fingered catches of Brother Milan Brdar, who recently made the varsity baseball team. Special recognition goes to Brother Fred Beale for his display of spirit and effort.

Deltasigs elected to class offices at the recent class elections were Brother Charles Frawley, vice-president senior class; Brother George Bulick, senior class Student Council representative; Head Master Paranka, junior class Student Council representative. Also, the Deltasigs are very proud of Brother Kenneth Lehmann, who was awarded the Western Reserve University's Trustee Scholarship for one year. The Deltasigs are on the march for a bigger and better year.—KEVIN BERRY

CREIGHTON

BETA THETA CHAPTER culminated the spring semester's activities with a formal dinner dance at the Fontenelle Hotel, on May 7. Brother Floyd E. Walsh, dean of the Creighton College of Commerce, presented the Delta Sigma Pi Scholarship Key to past Head

DEAN FLOYD WALSH, Creighton, awards the Delta Sigma Pi Scholarship Key to Frederick R. Jensen who was also the head master of Beta Theta Chapter at Creighton.

Master Fred Jensen. Thomas Arkwright received the chapter leadership ring. After these awards were accepted, Brother Jensen presented a secretarial wallet to Dr. John Begley in honor of his 25 years of service to Creighton University. The highlight of the evening came when Miss Marie C. Titchener was introduced as our "Rose of Deltasig." Approximately 400 persons, including members of Alpha Delta Chapter at the University of Nebraska and Gamma Eta Chapter at the University of Omaha, attended this function.

Under the capable leadership of Head Master John Fennell, the activities of the fall semester commenced with a business meeting on October 4 at the home of Philip McCarthy, province officer. At this time an activity calendar was discussed and voted upon. It passed with the unanimous approval of all members present. Brother James Merriman then gave a very interesting talk on various events that took place at the Grand Chapter Congress. After the meeting adjourned, a fine lunch was served.

So far this semester we have held two very successful professional meetings at the Spare-time Cafe. At the first, Mr. Art Knapp, member of the trust department of the Omaha National Bank, gave a very interesting talk on "County Courts." At the second, Dr. James A. Hart, associate professor of economics, spoke on the "Devaluation of the British Pound." Question and answer periods were held after both meetings. Plans for pledging this semester were initiated with a smoker on October 23 at the home of Brother Bill Kellogg. Prospective pledges heard various members speak on the aims and purpose of the fraternity. On October 28, the informal pledging took place at the College of Commerce.

From October 31 to November 4, Hell Week was once again in progress on the Hilltop. This traditional activity was climaxed with the informal initiation at the commerce building on November 4. In commemoration of Founders' Day, the formal initiation was completed at the Paxton Hotel on November 6. Nineteen pledges were admitted to the fraternity. Henry C. Lucas, member of the Grand Council, extended a word of welcome to the new members at a dinner following the ceremony. On December 9, the members of Alpha Delta Chapter at the University of Nebraska and Gamma Eta Chapter at the University of Omaha will be guests of Beta Theta Chapter at a dinner dance at the Birchwood Club. Professional and business meetings will round out the current semester.—IRVIN L. HECKMAN

TEXAS

BETA KAPPA CHAPTER swiftly initiated the fall rush program with a smoker in the International Room of the Texas Union on October 17. Thirty-six personable rushees of high scholastic ability were present to hear Professor Neil K. Alexander, of the accounting department, deliver an interesting presentation of the purpose and scope of Delta Sigma Pi. Entertainment was a color film of the Texas-Temple Football Game played in Philadelphia in September. This film was of special interest to the chapter because Brothers Errol Fry and Danny Wolfe are first string guards on the team. At the fourth regular Monday night meeting, Brother Miltstead, our capable delegate to the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress, presented a stimulating report of happenings in Baltimore. His enthusiastic report that Beta Kappa Chapter tied for first place in the Chapter Efficiency Contest was extremely gratifying. Being one of the most active professional fraternities on the campus, our chapter has set high standards for itself and is striving with tireless effort to become even more dynamic.

On October 24, Dr. Frank W. Jessen, consulting engineer of the Austin Area Economic Council, explained his organization's efforts to bring industries to Austin. His animated discussion of the problems of water supply, available capital and labor, proved interesting and enlightening. The Personnel Conference Luncheon, one of our annual social activities, took place October 27 at the Driskill Hotel. Outstanding businessmen attending the Texas Personnel Conference sponsored by The University of Texas, were invited to provide an opportunity for senior, graduate, and faculty members of Delta Sigma Pi, to meet business leaders.

The Crystal Ballroom of the Driskill Hotel was the scene of the gala fall formal on November 5. Celebration of Founders' Day was held in conjunction with this event. A highlight of the evening was the presentation of our "Rose of Deltasig." Escorted under the traditional rose-covered arch by Head Master Lord, Miss Lee Paxton was crowned with a coronet of red roses and presented with a bouquet of American Beauty Roses. Attending the formal dance were alumni, members, rushees, and members of the Beta Iota Chapter of Baylor University, who were in Austin to witness the Texas-Baylor Football Game. Faculty members who attended were R. B. Thompson, assistant professor of marketing, and William N. Breswick, instructor in marketing and transportation. Province Officer Stahl was also present.

The freshman law class elected Brother Miltstead to be its president. Brother Moore, who is Cadet Captain in "B" Company of The University of Texas Army R.O.T.C. Unit, was designated a distinguished military student and also was initiated into The National Society of Scabbard and Blade, an honorary military organization. Brother Sommer, graduate of the Air Force R.O.T.C. Unit and Second Lieutenant in the Air Force Reserve, represented The University of Texas chapter of Scabbard and Blade at the national convention held in Pittsburg during November. After winning one of the scholarships for the southwestern area, Brother Levander is attending Harvard University. Brother Fry recently was elected to Beta Alpha Psi, national honorary accounting fraternity. In Houston, Brother Hunter is working in the accounting department of Reed Roller Bit.—WILLIAM S. PIERSON

ILLINOIS

SINCE 1930, when the Upsilon Chapter became inactive, Delta Sigma Pi has not been represented at the University of Illinois. With the initiation of fifteen men on December 10, 1949, one of the oldest chapters of Delta Sigma Pi is again active. The ritualistic ceremonies, held in the Illini Union, were to have started at 12:00 noon. Due to inclement weather, the arrival of the ritual team was delayed for two hours, which heightened the nervous tension of the pledges. The ritual team was composed of the following members: J. D. Thomson, Assistant Grand Secretary-Treasurer; George Kiener, De Paul; Robert Lewis, Northwestern; Arthur Sangdahl, Northwestern; Edward Satterwhite, Northwestern; Gordon P. Wagner, Southern Methodist University; and Rudolph Weber, Northwestern.

Guests at the banquet, also held in the Illini Union were: H. R. Bowen, Dean of the College of Commerce; R. I. Dickey, Assistant Dean of the College of Commerce; V. J. Hampton, Assistant Dean of Men; and Professors Paul M. Green, E. R. Dillavou, C. F. Schlatter, and Edward J. Filbey. J. D. Thomson, representing The Central Office, delivered the major address. He congratulated the new members and gave a short history of Delta Sigma Pi. The climax of his address was the presentation of the original charter of the Upsilon Chapter. Dean R. I. Dickey welcomed Delta Sigma Pi back to the campus and expressed the best wishes of the College of Commerce. An informal and informative hour was held after the banquet. Dean H. R. Bowen, a member of Alpha Kappa Psi, congratulated the members on the reactivation of the Upsilon Chapter and offered his assistance. His approval comes from his belief that professional fraternities, like businesses, progress best when there is competition.

The reactivation of the Upsilon Chapter first began on October 6, 1949, when J. D. Thomson, Assistant Grand Secretary-Treasurer, visited a group of twelve students brought together by Joseph P. Foley. At this informal gathering, he explained the purpose of Delta Sigma Pi and answered the questions of the students. He gave directions for the procedure to be followed in the reactivation, kept in contact with Joseph P. Foley throughout, and wrote to the university officials concerned with the approval of the reactivation. Within a week, the group began working on the reactivation. Several more students joined and meetings were held weekly with committee meetings more frequently. Gordon P. Wagner, an alumnus of Beta Phi Chapter at Southern Methodist University, doing graduate work at the University of Illinois, advised the group in their activities. A constitution was drawn up by a committee composed of Gordon P. Wagner, Joseph P. Foley, Walter P. Weith, Robert J. Zima, Willard A. Peterson, Peter G. Sigalos, and Norman A. Prusinski. It was presented to the members and approved. This finished the first step in the reactivation.

A petition and the constitution was then presented to the Committee on Student Affairs for approval and recognition. While action was being taken, Gordon P. Wagner trained the members in the history, benefits, and purposes of Delta Sigma Pi. The approval of the university was received on November 19, 1949. Joseph P. Foley, Walter P. Weith, and Robert J. Zima visited The Central Office during the Thanksgiving holiday to make final plans for the initiation. Every member of the Upsilon Chapter expended much time and effort unselfishly to make the initiation and banquet a success.

The first officers of Upsilon Chapter are:

REACTIVATION AND INITIATION BANQUET of the Upsilon Chapter at the University of Illinois. This affair, which was held at the Illini Union Building on December 10, marked the end of almost 20 years of inactivity of Upsilon Chapter.

Head Master, Joseph P. Foley; Scribe, Walter P. Weith; Treasurer, Willard A. Peterson; Senior Warden, Robert J. Zima; Junior Warden, Kenneth R. Howarth; Chancellor, Peter G. MINNESOTA

ALPHA EPSILON CHAPTER at the University of Minnesota is proud that Brother Walter Sehm was elected Grand President of Delta Sigma Pi at the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress. Brother Sehm has already proved that he is an asset to the fraternity as its Grand President.

The immediate aim of Alpha Epsilon Chapter is the achievement of a perfect score in the Chapter Efficiency Contest. Toward this end, our chapter attended a meeting demonstrating parliamentary procedure conducted by the Toastmasters Club of the University of Minnesota. Professor E. W. Ziebarth, who is the commentator on international affairs of a major Twin Cities radio station, is scheduled to speak at one of our professional meetings.

Plans to attract a large and competent pledge class were immediately put into effect with a smoker at the opening of the fall quarter. Senior Warden Jim Abeln acted as master of ceremonies, and gave a brief description of the fraternity's activities to the group of prospective pledges. Following there was a welcome extended by Head Master Rollie Overvold. Brother Rudie Janzen and Grand President Sehm then spoke upon the advantages accruing to men who chose Delta Sigma Pi as their fraternity, with the result that 23 men were pledged.

The active chapter participated in the Founders' Day Banquet held by the Twin Cities Alumni Club at the Radisson Hotel in Minneapolis. The men in attendance first heard a plan submitted as the initial step toward furnishing undergraduate Deltasigs with counselling services. This plan is advanced as an aid to men who are near graduation who desire concrete information upon certain lines of work from men who are already situated in those occupations. This program should prove to be of great help to our seniors. Brother Janzen gave a talk recalling the first twelve pledges of Alpha Epsilon Chapter, and Brother Sehm spoke in conclusion regarding the significance of recent legislation.

Our social events of the fall quarter were handled ably by Brother Bob Barquist. The Homecoming Dance was held at the Westwood Hills Country Club, and was attended by as many alumni and actives as the facilities permitted. Our annual Fall Dinner Dance took place at the Dyckman Hotel, in Minneapolis on December 3. This affair was also the welcoming celebration for the newly initiated men, and everyone present reported a good time. We of Alpha Epsilon Chapter are cooperating to maintain a strong and active membership, and all indications are that we shall be successful in achieving our objectives.

INDIANA

HERE AT INDIANA UNIVERSITY, Alpha Pi Chapter has started off in full swing this semester. A rush smoker was held early in October with over 100 prospective rushees present to hear Professor John F. Mee, Member of the Grand Council and head of the management department, give a very interesting talk on the history of Delta Sigma Pi at Indiana University. Jim Johnson acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Professor Thomas Bossart, our able faculty advisor, who in turn introduced the other faculty members in attendance. Among those attending the smoker were: Professor Harold E. Lusk, Business law; Professor Edward E. Edwards, finance; Professor Karl G. Rahdert, insurance; Professor Robert Harvey, real estate; Professor Tom Isaac and Robert Fetter, both of the management department. Alpha Pi Chapter has been fortunate this year in hearing several outstanding speakers at the business meetings. Mr. David Pyle, secretary of the Bloomington Chamber of Commerce, gave an interesting talk about the history of the Chamber of Commerce in Indiana. Professor Taulman Miller, of the economic department, gave a clarifying talk about the recent steel strike. Both speakers were well qualified to speak on their topics and were warmly received by the chapter.

At present, final plans are being made for our fall initiation, which is being held on December 8. A banquet will follow with Gene Kollmeier in charge of the affair. A. M. Weimer, dean of the School of Business is to be the guest speaker, and Professor Clare W. Barker has been chosen as the guest of honor. Professor Barker, better known as "Doc," was chosen for this honor due to his long years of service to Alpha Pi Chapter. The annual Deltasig-AK Psi football game was played this year on November 6. The final score of the game was Deltasig 12—AK Psi 6. The winner of this tussle receives possession of an eighteen inch trophy for one year. This trophy is placed in the President's room and is also on display in the lobby of the Union Building.

With James I. Toy, past head master of Alpha Pi Chapter, still here at Indiana in Postgraduate School, to help and advise present Head Master Skiles, we feel confident that we will reach the top in the Chapter Efficiency Contest again this year. The combination of these two, plus the cooperation of the members of Delta Sigma Pi, which has been more evident this year than ever before, should prove to be a winning team and there should be no holding Alpha Pi Chapter back on our progress here at Indiana.—DAVID H. BAKER

LOUISIANA TECH

BETA PSI CHAPTER at Louisiana Polytechnic Institute has been an active force on the campus since the fall semester started. On October 7 and 8, when Louisiana Tech was host to the Second Annual Louisiana Accounting Conference, Beta Psi Chapter's efficiency in working on the administrative details contributed considerably to the smooth running of the Conference. On October 7, Beta Psi Chapter held a coffee hour, and on October 8 was host at a hot dog luncheon for the accountants attending the conference. Beta Psi Chapter's participation in the conference was one of the topics discussed on a fifteen-minute resumé of the conference over radio station KRUS on October 12. Participating in the discussion were Brothers Leo Herbert and Earl Bennett of the Accounting Division faculty, and Brothers Wagnon and Schroeder.

Our professional program for the year was initiated on September 20, with the viewing of two movies received from the National Association of Manufacturers. We first became aware of the valuable movies available from N.A.M. last May when Earl Bunting, managing director of N.A.M., was speaker at a Delta Sigma Pi banquet in his honor. At that time, Brother Bunting told us of the availability of the movies, and of N.A.M.'s desire to be of service in that manner.

Brother John Wagon, enthusiastic chairman of the professional programs committee, has plans that will fill the rest of the semester. On November 29, Mr. Ferrington, a C.P.A. from Monroe, will talk with the chapter at an evening meeting. On December 7, an all-day tour of the Interstate Gas and Pipeline Company at Shreveport is scheduled.

A rush party was held November 9 in the Home Economics Lounge. Due to an unexpected conflict with a college activity, the party was only an hour long, but nevertheless an enthusiastic group was present to hear Brothers Risinger, Herbert, Neal and Norris, give short talks, and to enjoy a skit directed by Brothers Ward and Dailey about the tribulation of a rabbit marketer. Invitations to pledge were sent to a number of the guests, 15 of whom were pledged on November 15. The new neophytes are enthusiastic and should prove to be definite assets to the chapter.

A Founders' Day Banquet will be held November 17 at the Little Dining Hall. The speaker for the occasion will be Mr. E. E. Armstrong, who is with the CPA firm of Redding and Armstrong, at Shreveport. Mr. Armstrong will speak on "Accountancy As A Future."—VERNON O. SCHROEDER

MIAMI

BETA OMEGA CHAPTER at the University of Miami celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet in the Rose Room of the Downtown Club. Brother Thomas, master of festivities, introduced the speakers of the evening, including Head Master Kleis, Alumni President Hill, Faculty Advisor Steinhoff, and dean of the School of Business Administration, Dr. Noetzel. Guest speaker, Dr. Norbert Milington, professor of foreign trade at the University of Miami, discussed foreign trade opportunities in Miami. Two successful rush parties have been held at the homes of Brothers Sanders and Smalley. Both affairs were held in the open, under lights, and their success may be credited to Brother Thomas and the social committee.

Beta Omega Chapter is proud that two of its members are prominent on the University of Miami "Hurricanes." Brother Brazington is the star left halfback. Brother McDonald, quarterback, is temporarily out of the line-up because of a wrist injury. In cooperation with the University of Miami Band, Beta Omega Chapter is assisting with the special lighting arrangements during the half-time shows at the Friday evening football games. These shows are believed to be quite unique as the Orange Bowl is plunged into complete darkness until the band plays and the special events are featured. The band members wear colored lights on their uniforms, and each act is brought into prominence by special colored lighting effects. The chapter receives commendation for this work by special announcement after each show.—GERARD E. SEUFERT

NORTHWESTERN

BETA CHAPTER at the Chicago campus of Northwestern University is going strong again this fall with 45 active members who look forward to another successful year. The information brought back from the Grand Chapter Congress by our eight representatives has really inspired us to go all out for Delta Sigma Pi during this coming year. Our social calendar, as usual, is crowded with many interesting activities and events. We heralded the beginning of the social season with our three rushing smokers. The speaker at the first smoker was Lars Carlson of the Oil Industry Information Committee. He gave a most informative talk, expressing the fact that the oil industry is vitally interested in the general public and its welfare. Joe Lokanc, assistant football coach at Northwestern University, our second speaker, told us about Northwestern University's chances in the big ten. He supplemented his talk with movies of some of the more outstanding football plays of the past. We wound up our smokers on a rather ingenious note—Ed McFaul gave a speech entitled "From Door to Door," a résumé of what a door-to-door salesman contends with.

Our speakers were not the only men who made our smokers an overwhelming success. We set an all time record at our first one by having a turnout of 75 rushees, 54 of whom signed our visitors' register. By interviewing each man and by various other processes of elimination we selected 14 men who have now been duly pledged to the Beta Chapter. The formal pledging ceremony was held on Sunday, October 16, 1949. These pledges, we are happy to announce, are showing a progressive interest in our organization. We think this is one of the major requirements for being a good Deltasig.

The highlight of our social calendar was the Founders' Day Banquet which was held in conjunction with the Chicago Alumni Club. We were honored to have as our guest Grand President Walter Sehm, who came all the way from Minneapolis to share the occasion with us. His address covered the accomplishments of the past and the propositions for the future of Delta Sigma Pi. Knowing that interorganization cooperation is vital on a college campus we would just like to add a note in passing to prove we are trying our best. Our Head Master Parke Howard has gone all out to cement relations between Beta Chapter and the other organizations on this campus by making the extreme sacrifice! He is to be married to the president of one of the campus sororities. We take this opportunity to extend to our Brothers our warmest good wishes and fraternal greetings for the coming New Year.—DONALD J. CARLSON

OKLAHOMA A & M

GAMMA EPSILON CHAPTER at Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical College, although only established on the campus since March 19, 1949, is rapidly making its place among the more active student organizations. The Delta Sigma Pi chapter has been pursuing a very active fall semester. The Deltasigs entered a float in the A & M homecoming parade held October 21. Patterned after an adding machine, it was so exact a replica that a sales representative of a national business machine company asked for pictures of the float to be displayed in his office. Although it did not place in the extremely keen competition, the float nevertheless focused favorable public attention on the name of Delta Sigma Pi.

A hayrack ride held on November 5 highlighted the social activities of the semester. The members and their dates had an excellent time, as well as the eight rushees pledged on October 31. These eight neophytes went through an intensive three weeks' training before they were initiated into the ranks of Delta Sigma Pi on December 10. Two of our Delta Sigma Pi brothers have been chosen for high honors. Brothers Dick Maloy, our social chairman, and Gene Spece, our former scribe, have been selected as members of Blue Key, honorary leadership fraternity. Membership in this organization is one of the highest distinctions afforded a student of A & M.

H. O. Bohen, personnel director of Oklahoma Natural Gas Company, was principal speaker at a professional meeting held November 7. Using a slide projector to illustrate his talk, he gave a very interesting lecture on "Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. Indoctrination Program." With the ranks of Gamma Epsilon reduced by the graduation in June 1949, of many of the key men that organized our chapter, our group now numbers 34 active members. However, under the capable leadership of our new Head Master, James Woodward, and the work of each of our members, the name of Delta Sigma Pi is firmly established on the A & M campus.—ROGER NICHOLSON

WISCONSIN

PSI CHAPTER at the University of Wisconsin has spent a very busy fall semester. It started out with an intensive formal and informal rushing program which proved very successful. Now, the fraternity tops the 100 mark in membership. Soon these ranks will be greatly thinned with February and June graduations coming up. One of the first events which proved as interesting as a "Badger" football game was fall initiation. Along with the 14 men who were accepted, Professor Kuby, head of the Industrial Management Department, was honorably initiated. The traditional initiation dinner was held at the Esquire Club which finished out the weekend.

Founders' Day at the chapter house brought many distinguished alumni back to meet their old friends and new. There were some excellent talks given by alumni brothers which proved very impressive to all the men. Many of these men are on the university faculty. We were informed that Brother Harry Schuck is chairman of the 50th Anniversary of the School of Commerce here at the university which is to be held in May.

Much repair and remodeling has taken place at the chapter house. The boys worked night and day to complete the recreation room by Homecoming. On the afternoon of the big day the recreation room was formally dedicated and opened for the evening's festivities. A large number of the alumni from past years attended the weekend affair.

This past year the men had the privilege of participating in a well rounded professional and social season. Along with hearing men speak from all forms of business life, the chapter had its annual costume parties and Christmas formal. A scholarship fund was set up for pledges who maintain better than a two point average. There has been great interest shown to the business men we have heard. Some of the members have secured leads on positions of employment through these men.

The fraternity has carried on quite an intensive athletic program in the last several months. They are out to win the "Badger Bowl" which is now held by Delta Upsilon. In order to have a chance at the bowl the Deltasigs have participated in all interfraternity sports to date. Along with taking second in the division in football and volleyball they have done very well in bowling and basketball. The men have showed remarkable athletic ability in competition. As the semester drew to a close new officers were elected to the executive council. They have already drawn up their plans to make a very successful spring semester.—GEORGE W. KALWEIT

RUTGERS—School of Business Administration

BETA OMICRON CHAPTER at Rutgers University celebrated Founders' Day with a formal dance at the Rock Spring Country Club, West Orange, New Jersey. The chapter social committee held a contest to select its choice for the "Rose of Deltasig." The winner of the contest was Miss Jane Gordon, a twenty year old private secretary from New York City. She was presented a bouquet of roses and the 1949 Beta Omicron "Rose of Deltasig" Trophy by Mrs. Marilyn Berry, 1948 winner. Actives, alumni, pledges and their dates were in attendance at this affair and much of its success was due to the work of Brother Urbanczyk, who heads the chapter social committee. The souvenir journals, Delta Sigma Pi books of matches and the photography work planned by Brother Urbanczyk and Head Master Hooley were unique and merited everyone's praise.

We, of Beta Omicron Chapter, were proud but not surprised when notified that three of our brothers were inducted into the national scholastic honor fraternity of Beta Gamma Sigma on October 26, 1949 in Newark, New Jersey. These brothers were Robert C. Brunner, John A. Grygiel and Willard A. Thompson. The Delta Sigma Pi Scholarship Key, presented annually by the fraternity to the outstanding male student who, upon graduation, ranks highest in scholarship for the entire course in business administration, was awarded to Brother Robert Maier for the academic year ending, April, 1949.

The Harry Ackerman Memorial Prize is an award presented to a graduating senior majoring in finance or insurance. Selection is based upon high academic achievement. For the year of 1948-1949, the award went to Brother Robert Brunner. Brother John A. Grygiel, who graduated this year, received a Fellowship to the School of Business Administration, University of Chicago. Under this Fellowship, Brother Grygiel will receive a small income to assist him financially during his first year as a postgraduate student.

The prospective pledge class was given a preview of fraternal life at Beta Omicron Chapter on Friday evening, October 7, during the chapter's rush smoker. Thirty-five of our rushees indicated a sincere desire to become Deltasigs. Members of the faculty present were: Dr. John C. Fetzer, Dr. Paul K. Edwards, Professor Francis M. Cody, Professor Eric Otto, Professor Robert W. Cambreleng and Mr. Vincent Toscani. Brother Don Baer, of the Alumni Federation, and Brother Ben Summer, Placement Director of the Newark Colleges, also joined in the festivities. Dr. John C. Fetzer, our chapter faculty advisor, outlined the many advantages of belonging to this fraternity. Professor Robert W. Cambreleng gave a brief historical account of Beta Omicron Chapter from its installation to the present.—JOSEPH F. SIRANGELO

NEW MEXICO

GAMMA IOTA CHAPTER at the University of New Mexico celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet at El Comedor de Soto on November 7. The speaker was Mr. Clifford O. Qualls who was Head Master of Gamma Iota Chapter last year. Brother Qualls made a very enjoyable speech on what the chapter has accomplished toward realizing the fraternity ideals and objectives. Dean Vernon G. Sorrell of the College of Business Administration also made a short talk.

On Sunday, October 16, 15 men were formally pledged by Gamma Iota Chapter following a dinner at La Placita. We believe that every one of these men will make fine additions to our chapter. Our pledges have already completed almost all plans for the float which we are entering in the university's annual Homecoming Parade. The pledges have shown a great deal of enthusiasm on the float preparations, and we believe that we will have one of the best entries in the parade.

In the student body elections Senior Warden John Kinzer was elected to a position on the Student Council. Brother Eddie Driscoll has been elected treasurer of Vigilantes, the sophomore men's honorary organization, and Norman Enos is also a member of this organization.

Our alumni have been very active and helpful in chapter affairs. Recent graduates from Gamma Iota Chapter are: Eddie Dugger, Jim Gravlin, Jay Hughes, John Ittersagen, Bill Lew, John Morrison, Cliff Qualls, Manuel Sandoval, Skid Spiller, Tom Trainor and Rudy Walter. We are going to miss having these men as active members, but we greatly appreciate the advice and help they have given us as alumni. Gamma Iota Chapter recently sponsored a speech by Mr. A. Ray Barker, prominent Albuquerque businessman, which was given at a meeting of the Commerce Club. Mr. Barker delivered an extremely interesting talk on salesmanship. We also plan to initiate a program of speakers from various business fields at our regular meetings.—EDWARD A. DRISCOLL, JR.

IOWA

EPSILON CHAPTER at the University of Iowa celebrated Founders' Day with a dinner at the Colony Inn, at the Amana Colonies. There were 60 actives and pledges in attendance at this dinner, which started us off on our professional program for this year. Brother Zawodny gave an interesting talk on his activities in the Polish underground during World War II.

As a result of the rushing for this semester we have pledged 20 men, all of whom will be assets to Delta Sigma Pi. We had two very successful smokers, during which we became well acquainted with our selected pledges. By the time the January issue of THE DELTASIG appears, we shall have had our formal initiation ceremony.

Epsilon Chapter helped contribute to Iowa's homecoming festivities by participating in the parade. Many of the members contributed time and energy to the seemingly endless job of decorating the float. Brothers Gonzales and Miller are to be highly commended for their supervision of the float construction. After the game, a coffee hour was given in honor of the visiting alumni, at the Chapter House.

In extra-curricular functions on the campus, the fact that a majority of the officers of the various commerce organizations are Deltasigs should indicate to our alumni that we are following the precedents that they have set for us in student affairs. John Howes is president of the senior class in commerce, and the other three officers are also Deltasigs. We are well represented on the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce. Brother Meeker heads this group and four other members are serving as officers and directors.

We should have no trouble meeting our quota in the Chapter Efficiency Contest and anticipate a final score of 100,000 points. The attainment of the maximum points in last year's contest has instilled a new spirit in Epsilon Chapter and a determination to be a repeater in the current contest. Arrangements are being completed for our Christmas formal to be held in the Rose Room of the Jefferson Hotel, December 10. All members are looking forward to this occasion, which will include the crowning of our new Rose of Deltasig.—ROBERT D. RINNAN

Evanston

IT ALL BEGAN September 12, 1949—the boys of Zeta Chapter streamed to Evanston from all parts of the country, Gordon, Andrews and Thomas got back from the convention, the officers dusted off their gavels, and Rush Week was underway! After six solid days and nights of hard work—and shaking hands is hard work when it's done on a 20-hour-day basis—the weary actives dropped to the nearest unoccupied piece of floor and looked over the results of their stress and strain. Ahhhh!—! What a wonderful looking bunch of pledges. Twenty-one of the little devils—innocent, unsuspecting, completely unaware of what lay ahead for them! With that consoling thought, the actives picked themselves up and proceeded with the business of acquiring a college education, Northwestern style.

First of all came a stag party to impress upon the new pledges the seriousness of this college business. Suffice it to say, it was a foaming success! The star of the affair was none than our beloved Herman von Straetker! (Okay, George, relax—you finally made The DELTASIG!) Then came a round trip to bewitching, exotic Bali H'ai, of "South Pacific." To be more explicit, the dream isle was brought to 1819 Orrington, Evanston, complete with palm trees, lagoons, gardenias, and 5 tons of sand on the floor of the recreation room. Everyone sat in the sand, waded in the lagoon (figuratively speaking), and sipped ambrosia from their cocoanuts.

After being bewitched—and grass skirts are so bewitching!—we got rugged! All aboard for the wilds of Canada—a steak fry in the Great Outdoors! Amply fortified from within, the cold presented no problem; everyone kept warm one way or another!

While cooling off from our Canadian venture, it suddenly dawned on us that Homecoming was just around the corner. From smoke-filled rooms came weird ideas for house decorations and a float—hammers flew, construction materials appeared from out of the blue, tempers grew short, and Homecoming arrived. The house bulged with alums, and everyone had a wonderful time trying to collect their old debts. It rained, of course, but the parade went on—the U. S. Mail and the Deltasigs, you know! Our decorations didn't win anything, but there are countless Deltasigs, vintages 1929 to 1953, who are adamant in the belief that "we wuz robbed!" We were, too!

The whole affair was given a royal ending at a big party thrown in downtown Chicago by our alumni club. Everyone was still trying to collect those old debts. Collections were good that night—and they all seemed to be liquid! Now let's have a formal—I paid $65 for that tux—gotta' get some use out of the thing! So we were off to the Saddle and Cycle, a veddy, veddy terrific joint, quite befitting a gathering of the bluebloods of Delta Sigma Pi. We started the evening formal, and we ended the evening—well, we ended the evening! Rather interesting, everything considered. Thus, my friends, ends the first installment of the escapades of the men, women, and children (again, figuratively speaking!).

KENT STATE

THE BETA PI CHAPTER at Kent State University is enjoying a full program of activity under the capable leadership of Head Master Mija. The other officers elected at our last election include: Senior Warden Olson, Junior Warden McClellan, Scribe Fusselman, Treasurer Scott, Historian Urban, Chancellor Barnes, Deltasig Correspondent Nehrer, and Chapter Advisor Krum.

Beta Pi Chapter's pledge group for the fall quarter was selected at an open smoker held at the Rythm Room in Kent, Ohio. An interesting and enlightening program was presented. From a group of 60 men, we selected 17 pledges and four members of the faculty. All these men were carefully picked and we feel that those who are entering their pledge period are good Delta Sigma Pi material. Their apparent enthusiasm and good faith confirm our belief.

Our Founders' Day Banquet was held at the Tall Pines Inn on November 9. Dr. Maurice Baum spoke on the theme, "Business for What." Dr. Victor Gravereau was also presented a small token of appreciation by the brothers for his past services to our fraternity as Province Officer. The political arm of Delta Sigma Pi swung into action at Kent's last school election. Two of our brothers, Senior Warden Olson and Junior Warden McClellan were elected to Men's Union.

A field trip is scheduled for November 21 to tour the General Electric Nela Park Division in Cleveland. Last year's trips included an extensive tour of the Cleveland Stock Exchange and the Freuhauff Trailer Company of Avon Lake, Ohio. Another newsworthy item is the coming banquet on December 3, on which day the initiation of pledges will be held. Also scheduled for December is our annual Christmas Dance.—JOHN NEHRER

PENN STATE

WITH THE OPENING of another fall semester, Alpha Gamma Chapter again assembled her remaining 43 brothers under the leadership of Brother John Wiedenman. The first business meeting was enthusiastically opened with the announcement that the chapter had tied for first place in the Chapter Efficiency Contest during the past year, and the challenge for a repeat performance was made. The challenge was promptly accepted and groundwork laid for the current year. As a result of the retirement of Dr. Hasek, of the department of economics at Pennsylvania State College, Alpha Gamma Chapter was faced with the task of appointing a new advisor. After much deliberation and discussion, the brothers elected the very capable Dr. Hench to the position with complete confidence in his ability to guide Alpha Gamma Chapter during the coming year. A report was presented to the members by Brother Bartels, who represented Alpha Gamma Chapter at the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress. The report was agreeably received and a very favorable impression conveyed to everyone. Many of the brothers have expressed hopes of attending the convention in 1951.

A successful fall rushing program has been completed with the pledging of 25 neophytes, including one faculty member. Pledge classes were launched under the leadership of Brother Muscarella. A tentative date for formal initiation was set for December 4, 1949.

A brother-faculty mixer was staged in October with high praises from both factions. Plans have been set for many similar social functions in the near future. Also Alpha Gamma Chapter will sponsor celebrated business representatives and labor experts to lecture at luncheons to be held semi-monthly at the State College Hotel. The initial assembling date has not been definitely set, but November 17 was formulated as the first tentative date. In addition to these social meetings, a formal dance has been suggested. Brother Bemus, the master of festivities, will determine the most opportune time to be selected after initiation of the neophytes in December. A sincere interest has been displayed by the officers and brothers so that all indications point to another highly successful year for Alpha Gamma Chapter.—CHESTER A. REED

OHIO STATE

BACK TO SCHOOL AGAIN! On October 3, 1949, 25 Deltasigs assembled at the chapter house to initiate the new school term. After a busy summer vacation, all of our brothers were happy to be back within the bonds of fellowship of Delta Sigma Pi. Nu Chapter has again ranked high in scholarship on Ohio State's Campus. During the spring quarter, the fraternity ranked tenth among the fraternities on campus and ranked fifth for the school year 1948-1949. In the intramural football league, Nu Chapter, despite several casualties, ended in second place by winning two out of three games.

On October 29, the fraternity opened its fall quarter social activities with a wiener roast at Blackhawk Cabin in Worthington. Both actives and their guests will always remember Brother Jerry Mahaffey's ability as a stocking salesman. After a "hair-raising" informal initiation, six new brothers were brought into our fellowship on November 6, at the Fort Hayes Hotel in downtown Columbus. Following the initiation, a banquet was served in the Gold Room of the Hotel. After several qualified nomination speeches, Paul H. Detrick was elected "Keeper of the Parchment Roll."

Nu Chapter celebrated Ohio State's victory over Illinois with its annual homecoming dance at the Knights of Columbus Ballroom from 9:30 until 1 o'clock. One hundred alumni, actives and their guests danced to the music of Ralph Cullen and his orchestra. O S U-TV was the theme of the homecoming decorations at the chapter house. Mickey Mouse football movies were projected upon a screen to give the appearance of television. The decorations attracted many spectators and much favorable comment.

On December 6, Nu Chapter will celebrate the twenty-eighth anniversary of its installation with a banquet to be held at the Columbus Athletic Club. At this time, scholarship certificates will be presented to those brothers who made a point hour of 3.25 or better last spring quarter.

Several Deltasigs from Nu Chapter have received special recognition on Ohio State's campus. Brother Detrick was recently appointed a Lt. Colonel in the Air Branch of the advanced ROTC by Colonel Brewer. Brother Jack E. Trick, who was also recently advanced to the rank of captain in the ROTC, is a member of the Ohio State All-American Marching Band. Mont W. Swearingen was elected vice president of the newly organized Students Marketing Club. Also several other brothers are charter members of this organization. Two of our brothers were initiated into Beta Alpha Psi, accounting honorary society. They are Philip E. Kepple and Daniel R. Jording. Brother Dwight E. Mackey was elected president of the Albright-Otterbrien Student Fellowship for the school year 1949-1950 and Thomas R. Mercer was recently elected to the Commerce College Council. On December 16, Nu Chapter will lose and the business world will gain when three of our Brother Deltasigs march forward to receive their "hard fought for degree." It has been great knowing these fellows and to work with them. We give our congratulations and best wishes to Brothers Fred M. Schaffer, Robert L. Tague, and Richard S. Voorhees.—JACK J. EISNAUGLE

SOUTH CAROLINA

ON NOVEMBER 9, Beta Gamma Chapter at the University of South Carolina presented to the university a portrait of our late brother, George Edgar Olson, who was dean of the School of Commerce here for more than a quarter of a century. The presentation was marked by impressive ceremonies in the University Chapel before a large crowd of Deltasigs, faculty members and other friends of Dean Olson. Brother Frank J. Taylor, a Columbia insurance man and an alumnus of Beta Gamma Chapter, presented the portrait; and Admiral Norman M. Smith accepted it for the university. Both former students and colleagues remember Brother Olson and were happy to have an opportunity to pay honor to his memory. His contributions to the university were of genuine worth.

J. M. McAlister, South Carolina manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company, was the guest speaker at the first professional meeting of this semester. Mr. McAlister made an analysis of the divisions of the company. Beta Gamma Chapter's active membership has fallen to 28, but we have a pledge class of 13 men who will fill the vacancies of the actives who graduated. The new pledges will have to conform to the merit system which has recently been installed, and will have to acquaint themselves with some of the activities of the chapter.

Our chapter was well represented at the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress recently in Baltimore. The delegation from Beta Gamma Chapter was composed of Harry Bell, Waddy Hill, Bill Teel, and Wallace Wharton, the official delegate. Brother Sanford Epps, an alumnus of the chapter, of Columbia, entertained the actives, pledges, and alumni at a supper at Lake Murrey. He is taking an active interest in the promotion of an alumni club in Columbia. Brother Epps is manager of Claussen's Bakery at Columbia. Both alumni and active members are gratified by the initiative he is taking in the organization.—JAMES E. BRADBURY

BAYLOR

BETA IOTA CHAPTER at Baylor University climaxed this year's intramural football season by winning the championship title. We are proud of those boys who worked out faithfully and played wholeheartedly in each game to win the tight, hotly-contested intramural football championship. Much of the success of the team can be attributed to the hard work of the two captains, Brother Heathington and Brother Newman.

We wish to express our sincere gratitude to Brother Roberts and Brother Jones for the time and effort that they gave in organizing the building of the beautiful float that represented our chapter in the annual Homecoming Parade. The float was a replica of the new football stadium being constructed at Baylor. Also, we appreciate the fine interest and devoted effort of our new members, at that time pledges, who accepted responsibility in true Deltasig fashion and helped prepare a float of which every member was proud.

We believe that we have admitted a group of young men into our chapter this quarter who are of the same caliber that is characteristic of our fraternity. We heartily congratulate and welcome these men. Brother Sorelle proved to be a capable and willing pledge captain of this group. Two of these new members are varsity athletes. Brother Harris played freshman basketball last year and is a substitute on the varsity squad this year. Brother Dickerson is a three-year letterman in football. For the past two years he has been our only extra point and field goal specialist. His ability with the toe has brought Baylor University to victory in some close games.

We congratulate our brothers who played football this year on the Baylor Football Team for their seasonal success in winning the second-place berth of the Southwest Conference. Those members are Brother Stone, all-conference guard, Brother Dickerson, left end, and Brother Boydston, fullback. Brother Heathington is expected to be the main cog of Baylor's basketball team this year. Last year he made all-conference.

Brother Wyatt Heard represented our chapter at the Grand Chapter Congress. Brother Heard is one of our most active members. He is so enthusiastic about the fine time he had at the Grand Chapter Congress that we feel certain many members will want to attend the next one. Beta Iota Chapter is cooperating with Brother Woodward in his attempt to organize a Delta Sigma Pi Alumni Club here in Waco. We believe, judging from Brother Woodward's past fraternity record that, if success is possible in organizing this alumni club, he will succeed. We pledge our cooperation to Brother Woodward and commend him for his zealous promotional undertaking.—JOHN F. BOYDSTON

MU CHAPTER, Georgetown, assembled for a recent initiation held in the Hotel 2400 in Washington, D.C.

GEORGIA—Atlanta

DURING THE SUMMER a work contest held at the lodge increased the number of man-hours of work tremendously. The active chapter was divided into two teams, one handled by Marshall Asher and the victorious team captained by Bill Dodds. Alumni were allowed to choose their side. The prize was a Saturday night supper at the lodge, paid for by the losing team members of Kappa Chapter. Another feature of the summer insofar as Kappa Chapter was concerned was procurement of the attendance trophy at the Grand Chapter Congress in Baltimore.

The annual Deltasig Lodge Barbecue this September attracted the largest crowd of the year. Refreshments were plentiful and the barbecue, prepared by a professional, was delicious. At a hole-in-one golf tournament Harold Bryan won first place with a 250-yard drive which stopped six inches short of the hole. During the afternoon the active chapter defeated the alumni in a softball game. Another lodge function was the annual Halloween party, held this year on October 28. A costume affair primarily, prizes were given to the best costume for both men and women, and there were many serious contenders for both prizes.

At long last the coveted sports trophy was won from the local chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi. Although the annual Thanksgiving Day football game was cancelled last year, a series of softball games replaced this contest as the basis for forwarding the trophy. In what was slated as the best four of seven contests, Kappa Chapter walked away with the first four games, under the capable leadership of Morris Ramsey, the Howell-Athon battery, and the balance of the Deltasig all-star team.

As usual the chapter remained on an active basis during the summer, with regular professional programs and two chapter business meetings each month. A pledge class was carried most of the summer. Additions to the lodge during the summer included a new coffee urn, hot water heater, and showers in the men's dormitory. Additional land was purchased adjoining the lodge property, which means that the proposed lake will be larger.

Instead of the traditional cake race rush function at the lodge, Kappa Chapter inaugurated an annual program of aiding the new students to become better acquainted with the school and its activities. This Open House at the Deltasig Lodge attracted over 100 persons—members, wives, guests, professors, and administration officials. Dr. George M. Sparks, director, made the principle talk.

Kappa Chapter held its Founders' Day Banquet on Sunday, November 6, because of the arrangement of classes at the university. A large crowd turned out, including most of the members of the active chapter and the alumni chapter. Professor Dennison, currently at Georgia Tech, gave the principal speech on the attributes essential for leadership. Our professional programs this year have included several good films and two outstanding speakers. Mr. William Lester spoke on the tax revision in Georgia, which his committee is studying, and Mr. H. G. Mitchell, manager of the Atlanta Better Business Bureau, also made a talk in one of the professional programs. Brother Tom Luck was elected to serve as chancellor for the remainder of the year, and Julian Hogan was chosen scribe. These replacements, made at the beginning of the fall quarter, were necessary when the original officers were forced to resign for business reasons.—GENE KYSER

MISSISSIPPI STATE

GAMMA DELTA CHAPTER at Mississippi State College initiated seven new members into Delta Sigma Pi this fall. After the initiation, which was held in the modern Business Education Building, the new members were honored at a banquet given in the College Grill on the campus. Mr. Lewis L. Doughton, manager of the Sears Roebuck and Company branch store in Birmingham, Alabama, was guest speaker for the occasion. He revealed many fascinating and interesting inside details of the operation of a large chain store in one of America's fastest growing industrial cities. One of the initiates is Jack Hazard of West Point, Mississippi, who is the president of the Student Association for 1949-1950. He is a prominent figure on the campus and over the state.

Several visitors and pledges were entertained at a professional meeting on November 3. Head Master Waite welcomed the visitors and gave an account of the Grand Chapter Congress which was held in Baltimore, Maryland. The speakers for the occasion were Mr. John Bryan of Bryan Brothers Packing Company in West Point, Mississippi, and Mr. Sam Wilhite, secretary of the West Point Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Bryan told the members and guests of the operation of his company, and Mr. Wilhite gave an interesting talk on industry in Mississippi. Some general details concerning the expanding industrial facilities of the state were factors that made the occasion enjoyable and educational. A General Motors film, "Sand and Flame," was shown. This movie gives a detailed description of the process of glass making. Following the meeting, a smoker was enjoyed by those present.

The members, pledges, and their dates celebrated Founders' Day on November 12. Lake Norris, near Columbus, Mississippi, was the scene of a picnic and dance given on that date. Brother George Rayl was in charge of festivities, and the moonlit night occasion was much enjoyed by the members and pledges. Gamma Delta Chapter is planning another initiation in January. We now have 11 pledges. Ten of the pledges are undergraduate students, and one is a faculty member. We have scheduled a full program of professional activities for this year. Our coming program includes field trips, lectures and talks by various business officials, and social occasions whenever practical.—BONNIE E. WESTBROOK

WAYNE

THE BEGINNING of Gamma Theta Chapter's first year as a member of Delta Sigma Pi has been marked by a constant stream of activities in both the professional and social fields. Under the leadership of Head Master Winters, committees were formed early in the semester and have worked with the chapter officers to provide the members with a well rounded program.

On October 12 Gamma Theta Chapter was host to Douglas McGarrity, who had spent the summer in England studying the Labor Government. His talk on "Britain and the Labor Party" provoked much thought and comment judging from the questions fired at him at the conclusion of his speech. Brother Rath of the marketing department of Wayne University, addressed the group on November 2, with "Economic Stability" as his topic. The evening was concluded with refreshments.

Founders' Day was celebrated by a banquet held in the University Student Center. At the speakers' table were Brother Kapp, who acted as toastmaster, Brother Borough from Alpha Omicron Chapter, now associated with General Motors Corporation and main speaker of the evening, and Head Master Winters who presented Brother Brown with a miniature gavel in appreciation of the work and guidance he contributed as head master of the petitioning group. Preceding the banquet, 13 pledges were admitted to the fraternity. These pledges are now in the midst of their pledge program and appear to be bearing up well.

Mr. Harry Shires, general sales manager of Republic Steel, spoke before the group on November 16. His topic, "Selling Yourself," proved extremely interesting to the entire group, and especially worthwhile to those members who will soon be entering the fields of business and industry.

As to social events, an informal square dance was held on November 25. Blue jeans and plaid shirts served as a colorful background to the "do-se-doing" that went on until the late hours of the evening. Refreshments were served to keep up the energy of the dancers. The members are looking forward to the concluding and most important event of the semester—our first initiation as a member of the national group. With this event we will be realizing our first semester's goal of a better local chapter under the banner of Delta Sigma Pi.—NORMAN C. GRILL

KANSAS

IOTA CHAPTER at the University of Kansas celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet in the Palm Room of the Student Union. Speaker for the evening was Professor Ise, renowned economist and a member of the faculty here at the university, who presented an entertaining satirical sketch entitled "In Defense of Fraternities." Over 25 brothers and 18 pledges were in attendance at this affair and much of its success was due to the work of Head Master Friedeman and Brother Nystrom who heads the chapter social committee.

As a result of a smoker held in the Pine Room of the Student Union and a stag party at the Skyline Club, 18 men were pledged. Following the pledging ceremony, the young neophytes were placed under the supervision of Brother Richardson who is in charge of pledge training. Plans are being made for the initiation of these pledges December 18. Our first professional function was a field trip through the Jayhawk Box Factory here in Lawrence on October 27. Both actives and faculty members were present and the trip proved extremely interesting and informative. A second trip is planned for later this month at which time the members will journey to Kansas City for a tour through the General Motors Corporation. Brother Hachinski who heads the professional committee has outlined a full and varied program of professional meetings and trips for the remainder of the college year.

Several of the brothers have been active in intramural sports during the semester. Representation has been best in golf and tennis. In addition to these activities plans have been completed in organizing a basketball team. An order has been placed for new uniforms and weekly practice session began November 12. Much enthusiasm has been displayed among the members and determination has been strongly expressed to beat Alpha Kappa Psi in the annual game which is scheduled for early in January.

Brother Richardson is conducting a survey among the firms where recent graduates are employed. Questionnaires and accompanying letters are being sent to these brothers in an effort to obtain job information as an aid in finding employment for graduating chapter members. Much work and study has been put forth in this survey thus far and much more remains to be done in the next few months, however, it is felt that this service will be adequately organized by the end of the semester and will offer valuable information and assistance to the graduating members.—KENNETH F. STONE

BUFFALO

OCTOBER 15 found Hartman's Restaurant the setting for the second professional meeting of the Alpha Kappa Chapter. Attending with the alumni, pledges and active members, were their wives and dates. Following the dinner, Mr. Joseph Healey spoke on the subject of "Industrial Design." After adjournment, the group left for Kleinhans Music Hall and the Millard Fillmore Students Association Reception Dance. Attendance at the dance was high with nearly 1,800 present.

A joint meeting of the Buffalo Alumni Club and Alpha Kappa Chapter featured the celebration of Founders' Day. The meeting took place at the University Post Veterans of Foreign Wars. The alumni showed pictures of the development of the chapter. Some of the newspaper items brought back cherished memories to many of the alumni present. The alumni talk helped the active members in realizing the scope of the chapter and its power before it became inactivated. The main speaker for the evening was Mr. Fred Wagner, who gave everyone present a new way of thinking of "Practical Accounting."

On November 19, a formal initiation took place at the Buffalo Canoe Club in Ontario, Canada. A short get-acquainted period followed the formal initiation. A brief meeting was called by Head Master Tober to elect a Keeper of the Parchment Roll. After a furious election, which had campaign managers at each others throats, Brother Conlon emerged victorious. President Lowe, of the Buffalo Alumni Club, gave a warm and inspiring talk on fraternity life. He expressed the hopes that the active chapter will work even harder toward its goal of having a fraternity house. Province Officer Franclemont welcomed the five new brothers and backed up President Lowe in his desire for seeing the active chapter have a house of their own.

All of us are looking forward to December 3 and the Silver Anniversary Dance of Alpha Kappa Chapter. The dance will be informal and will be held at the Grover Cleveland Country Club in Buffalo. A large turn-out of alumni is expected at this celebration commemorating 25 years in Delta Sigma Pi. Our next professional meeting will be at the University Post Veterans of Foreign Wars. Mr. Marvin Bush, who is general sales manager at Remington Rand Company, Inc., will show a film entitled, "It Must Be Somewhere." The date of the meeting has been set for December 10, with the public cordially invited to attend.—RICHARD W. SCHOELES.

ALABAMA POLY

A FORMAL INITIATION was held by Beta Lambda Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on November 20, and the following men were initiated: B. M. Alvord, George Atkinson, Harry J. Barnes, Jimmy T. Cain, Mack L. Casey, George W. Cherry, William D. Henley, Wilbur W. Hill, Jr., J. C. Lombardo, J. W. Mahles, Lee W. O'Mary, H. M. Spivey, R. N. Stephenson, George M. Stuart, Fordyce J. Tatum, Charles M. Taylor and Wilbur H. Truitt.

After the ritualistic ceremonies had been conducted, a very fine banquet was served at The Midway. Head Master Williams ably presided at the speaker's table, and the excellent steak dinner was enjoyed by all those present.

During the month of November, Professor Lee D. McChesney, the faculty advisor for Beta Lambda Chapter, made it possible for the members of Beta Lambda Chapter to participate in an inspection tour of Rich's Department Store. It was necessary for the members to travel to Atlanta, Georgia, where this store is located, but the tour proved to be well worth the trip.—JOE F. EVANS

MISSOURI

ALPHA BETA CHAPTER held its first business meeting of the school year on September 27, 1949. The chapter pledge smoker was held at the Daniel Boone Hotel on October 5. Pledging took place at the business meeting on October 18. Initiation for the first semester was held at the Tiger Hotel, Sunday, October 30, and 28 pledges, including three faculty members, were initiated. Following the initiation, a banquet was held which was attended by about 100 actives, pledges, and alumni.

Alpha Beta Chapter's first professional meeting of the school year was held on October 4, when Leslie Cowan, vice president in charge of business operations of the university, discussed business aspects of university operation in general and the university's long-range building program in particular. Of special interest to members of the chapter were the plans as they pertained to the School of Business and Public Administration.

The Third Annual Industrial Management Conference, attended by industrial leaders from the Middle West and a few from the East, was held here on October 13-15, 1949. Members of Alpha Beta Chapter assisted in the activities of the conferences by ushering, and otherwise facilitating the proceedings. Alpha Beta Chapter is looking forward to, and planning, one of its greatest years. Our chapter has won the Chapter Efficiency Contest for a number of years in succession, and under the competent and stimulating leadership of Head Master Joe Gilbert, we feel confident that we shall repeat or even excel our previous performance this year.—VERNON H. BOSTON

GAMMA CHAPTER at Boston University celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet at the University Club. Members of the Boston Alumni Club and the undergraduate brothers joined together to make this a gala event. Guest speaker for the evening was Dean William G. Sutcliffe of the Boston University, College of Business Administration. The second professional meeting of the new school year was held at the University Club on Wednesday evening, November 2, 1949. About 25 brothers, 15 pledges and some eight alumni attended the meeting. Head Master Law acted as master of ceremonies and, after welcoming the pledges, he introduced Brother Fitzpatrick, president of the Boston Alumni Club. Brother Fitzpatrick told the pledges about the position of the alumni with respect to the undergraduate chapter. Brother Fitzpatrick was followed by Province Officer Lou Gilbert who discussed the fraternity on an international basis.

Following the "pep" talks, Head Master Law introduced the principal speaker for the evening, Mr. Adolph Ullman, president of Northeastern Distributing Company of Boston. Mr. Ullman chose for his topic, "Modern Specialty Wholesaling," a subject which was most interesting to the business students present. Gamma Chapter's first plant tour of the year took place on October 6, when 18 brothers visited the Brigham Candy Company in Cambridge, Massachusetts. Brother Robert G. Busse, Member of the Grand Council, with the help of the Chairman of the professional committee, Glen Ditmar, arranged the trip.

The undergraduate brothers and alumni met at Patten's Restaurant to extend to Grand Council Member Bob Busse their appreciation of his cooperation and friendly spirit in his association with Gamma Chapter. We all wish him success and happiness in his future work. Delta Sigma Pi joined in the gala "Terrier" rally on October 11 by entering a float in the torch light parade which preceded the festivities at the Boston Arena. Brother Russ Carlson, chairman of the activities committee, with the help of some of the other brothers, constructed a float depicting the death of Boston University's football opponent, the West Virginia "Mountaineer." Needless to say, the "Terriers" won the game, and the corpse was carried to its resting place by a group of Delta Sigma Pi mourners.

Foremost in our inter-fraternity activities was the success of our football team. We finished in second place in a 12 team league. Considering this was Delta Sigma Pi's first representation in any inter-fraternity sports, we are proud of our record. For the balance of the semester we plan to enter the bowling and basketball leagues. The gala social event of the semester was held on November 5 when members of Gamma Chapter and the Boston Alumni Club joined in a party and dance after the Temple University-Boston University football game. Twelve brothers of Omega Chapter at Temple University joined with us in this party, and during the evening they were introduced by Head Master Stan Glossner of Temple University.—PORTER W. DORR, JR.

MICHIGAN

UNDER THE DIRECTION of Brothers Drayton and Murphy, the house was thoroughly cleaned and painted before the semester began. They also supervised the installation of our new kitchen which went into operation at the beginning of the semester. Head Master Ward and Brother DuBrul made arrangements for obtaining all necessary equipment and supplies while Brother Ott was busy finding us a cook and other help. Brother Meehan has recently taken over the duties of steward from Brother Drayton. The redecoration and new kitchen are examples of the remarkable progress that Xi Chapter has made since it obtained a chapter house a year ago. A considerable portion of our progress has resulted from the assistance that the Xi Chapter Alumni Association of Detroit has so graciously given us. Thanks again, Brothers.

The professional committee, under the chairmanship of Brother Berry, has already presented three interesting meetings. Professor Clare E. Griffin of the School of Business Administration addressed the first meeting. His talk, "Free Enterprise-European and American Style," was based upon personal observations made during his recent trip to Europe. At the second meeting, Joseph Wohlf, commissioner of buildings and safety engineering of Detroit, discussed "Management Responsibility for Safety in Industry." The third meeting featured Kenneth C. Tiffany, vice president of Burroughs Adding Machine Corporation. It was an informal discussion relating to the problems that Burroughs encountered during its recent reorganization and was followed with some valuable practical advice. The social committee has also helped to make this a busy year. Buffet dinners, followed by evenings of dancing, were held after the Army, Minnesota and Ohio State football games. We were pleased that so many alumni were able to stop in after the games for the gala events. Founders' Day was celebrated with a hayride and party. We were fortunate in being able to pledge 19 exceptionally fine men. The pledge formal was held in their honor on December 3, at the White Lodge Country Club. The formal banquet was held December 11 at the chapter house.

The golf team was unsuccessful in its annual match with Theta Chapter at Detroit. They were attempting to gain permanent possession of the trophy by winning the third successive match, but were defeated by a narrow margin.

Several brothers attended the installation of Gamma Kappa Chapter at Michigan State. They wish to express their appreciation for the spirited and competitive evening that was provided by our new brothers and also by brothers from Detroit.—RICHARD D. MACKEY

JOHNS HOPKINS

CHI CHAPTER at Johns Hopkins University celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet at the Blackstone Apartments on November 12, 1949. There was a tremendous turnout of both active and alumni brothers, making a representation of 44. Much of the affair's success was due to the untiring work of Brother Earl, chairman of the Social Committee, and our heartiest congratulations to everyone for a job well done.

After a fine banquet, we had as our guest speaker, Mr. Edgar L. Heever, president of the Fast-Pick Corporation. As his theme, he spoke on, "Your Mind—Do You Use It?" Dealing with the idea of the difference between cheerful thinking and wrong thinking, his dynamic presentation made a lasting impression on everyone. Plans are well advanced by the social committee for a spring dance to be held in March. With the un-failing cooperation of all brothers, this is to be the biggest affair planned by Chi Chapter. Our Halloween Dance, held on October 29, was one of the many affairs in which great enthusiasm was expressed. It is certain our future activities will be received wholeheartedly.

Our professional activities, under the able leadership of Brother Zeller, have been high in the field of accomplishment. Interest has been spontaneous and these meetings are well attended by groups of prospective pledges. As the result of such activities, we have already pledged a number of new men, adding more scope to our field of endeavor. Congratulations are in order to Brothers William Zeller and John Schultheis, recently elected as chancellor and chairman of the professional committee, respectively. Under the leadership of both men, our chapter and members will benefit greatly.

As a result of a full and varied program, we shall have no trouble in meeting the requirements of the Chapter Efficiency Contest and reach the ultimate goal of 100,000 points. A large portion of this total number has been submitted to The Central Office. With the untiring efforts of Head Master Sparenberg, all active brothers, and prospective new members, our chapter will fulfill the aims and ideals of Delta Sigma Pi.—HARLAN W. SHIPLEY, JR.

MEMBERS OF GAMMA CHAPTER at Boston University at their initiation held last summer.

TEXAS TECH

BETA UPSILON CHAPTER has again launched forward with its varied activities and has resumed normal operation for the fall semester after an inactive summer term. In an effort to carry on our business more efficiently and to encourage a closer fellowship between members and pledges we have voted to hold regular business meetings every Tuesday night, instead of meeting twice monthly as has been the practice in the past. This plan has worked very effectively and has enabled us to work in more professional speakers on our regular meeting nights. Having weekly sessions has eliminated the necessity of calling special meetings for hearing speakers at which it is always hard to obtain a good representation of members and pledges because of the many conflicting college activities.

Our first social function, a wiener roast and picnic, honoring our prospective pledge for the fall semester, was held at MacKenzie State Park, Lubbock, on September 30. Eighteen pledges were selected for the fall semester at a smoker on October 4. Other socials on our fall agenda have been a buffet supper at the Hilton Hotel, October 15, in honor of our alumni; a dinner dance at the Mexican Inn, October 27, in celebration of our chapter's second birthday; and a Founders' Day Breakfast at the Hilton Hotel, November 6.

Our "Rose of Deltasig," Miss Doris Brooks, senior business administration student from Marshall, Texas, will be presented at a formal dance to be held at the Hilton on January 13. Miss Brooks and her attendants, Miss Patricia Todd of Houston, Texas, and Miss Dorothy Stephenson of Fort Stockton, Texas, greatly enhanced the beauty of the Deltasig float in the Texas Homecoming Parade. Patricia and Dorothy have also been selected as two of Tech's top beauties.

Dreams of a business administration reading room and library, a project of Beta Upsilon Chapter for the past two years, are beginning to materialize with the construction of two new wings to the present Administration Building, with one room set aside for our library. Mr. George W. Dupree, prominent lawyer and part-time professor at Texas Tech, has pledged his salary to be used for the purchase of books to be placed in this library. Deltasig members will have complete charge of the supervision and maintenance of the combination reading room and library. —RAYMOND HALL

DRAKE

ALPHA IOTA CHAPTER of Drake University celebrated Founders' Day with a buffet supper at the Des Moines Club. The entire active chapter of 22 Deltasigs was in attendance, plus 22 pledges and 20 alumni Deltasigs. Mr. J. E. Ratner, of Meredith Publishing Company, and managing editor of Better Homes and Gardens, was the principal guest and speaker. Mr. Ratner's talk, "What We as Businessmen Can Do About the Welfare State," is a preview of an article he is writing for Atlantic Monthly. Other speakers were Brother Hoffman, dean of the School of Commerce, and Brother Schmidt, an alumni Deltasig now with Sears, Roebuck and Co. Another guest was Mr. Peyson Hall, assistant comptroller at Meredith Publishing Co. Credit for this very well planned program and delicious dinner goes to Brothers Dunn, Horne, and Sauerman, all members of the chapter social committee.

As a result of one of our previous smokers we have pledged 22 men, every one of whom we expect will help make Alpha Iota Chapter one of the best in Delta Sigma Pi. Alpha Iota Chapter, badly hit by graduation the last two years, is concentrating on sophomore and first semester junior pledges in the hope of strengthening and building up the chapter. The report brought back from the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress of Delta Sigma Pi by Brother Timmins was heard with great interest by all brothers of Alpha Iota Chapter and served to instill in all a new determination to assist the Grand Council in fulfillment of their aims. With the capable leadership of Head Master Roby and the drive of Brother Schulze, head of the Chapter Efficiency Contest, Alpha Iota Chapter fully expects to top 100,000 points for the first time in the chapter's history. —WILLARD H. SWARTZENDRUBER

COLORADO

ALPHA RHO CHAPTER at the University of Colorado has commenced another year with a full program of social and professional activities. Of first consideration to the chapter this year was the election of officers. Under the leadership of these new officers, an active rushing program was undertaken. Following the final smoker held in the Student Union Building, the rushees voted upon by the chapter were given bids. On November 11, formal pledging was held in Woodbury Hall. After the pledging ceremonies, the actives and new pledges enjoyed a talk by Brother Frasca, the chapter advisor and professor of business law, who welcomed the pledges and gave his interpretation of the purpose of the fraternity. Brother Frasca is taking his leave next year and will be sorely missed by the chapter.

Initiation was held late in the school quarter for the 29 pledges. Their initiation was celebrated by a banquet at the Pleasant Manor Restaurant, in Boulder, where a meal, highlighted by T-Bone steaks, was enjoyed. There brothers were also delighted in having in attendance at the initiation ceremony and banquet several of their School of Business faculty members.

Plans are now being made for the New Year's Party, which the chapter feels will be as successful as ever. Guest speakers are being contacted and Alpha Rho Chapter looks forward to their presence at its professional meetings. The winter dinner dance is not far away, and it should start the new quarter for the members of our chapter in a very festive manner.—ROSS B. ALISON

MEMPHIS STATE

GAMMA ZETA Chapter, after being semi-active during the summer, entered the fall quarter with pleasant anticipation of participating in activities and duties of Delta Sigma Pi. We are trying to make our first year in Delta Sigma Pi an outstanding one. Founders' Day was celebrated with a dinner and dance at Hotel Peabody on Monday, November 21. Principal speaker for the occasion was Major T. H. Allen, president of Memphis Light, Gas, and Water Division. Guests included R. M. Robison, dean of Memphis State, and Dr. Edward I. Crawford, head of the department of Business Administration.

Twelve new members were initiated on Sunday afternoon, December 4, at Hotel Peabody. A feature of the pledge program for these new members was the selling of Christmas Cards. This venture was highly successful and will probably be made a permanent part of each fall's pledge program.

Brother John N. Anderson has been appointed editor of the Memphis State College weekly newspaper, the Tiger Rag. Brother Anderson has been on the Tiger Rag staff for two years and has held various positions in the organization. Brother Anderson is also one of the nineteen Memphis State College students elected this year to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Brother James H. Taylor has been named Acting Bursar at Memphis State College. Brother Taylor was appointed to fill the vacancy created when Bursar Lamar Newport was elevated to acting president after President J. Willard Smith had been granted a leave of absence from the college in order to accept an appointment as State Commissioner of Education.

Deltasigs in the Memphis area have formed an alumni club and are holding weekly luncheons each Friday, at noon, at the Brass Rail. Meetings are held at Hotel Peabody on the first Monday of each month. This group is looking forward to receiving its charter from The Central Office in the near future.—FRANK C. SEXTON

NORTH CAROLINA

ALPHA LAMBDA CHAPTER at the University of North Carolina began its fall rushing on October 17, with a smoker for the prospective pledges at the chapter house. Thirty members are now enrolled in the pledge class. The interest which the pledges are showing in the fraternity is most encouraging. The class is divided into two teams, which are now engaged in a contest. The contest is based on a quality point system, allowing each pledge so many points for hours spent at the house visiting, or on detail. The contest will last for the duration of the pledge period, and the team earning the least number of points will entertain the winning team at a party. This scheme serves a two-fold purpose by stimulating a competitive spirit and a greater interest in the fraternity.

At the head of our professional activities this season was a tour through the Dan River Textile Mills of Danville, Virginia. The chapter was guest of the personnel department. The members were conducted on an organized tour of the entire plant. They observed the processing of raw cotton and rayon all the way from fiber to fabric. The tour proved to be very informative, and the chapter was well received.

Founders' Day was observed by Alpha Lambda Chapter at a banquet given at the Carolina Inn on November 7. Members and pledges entertained faculty members and alumni. Two charter members were present: H. A. Rhinehart of Durham, North Carolina, and E. B. Dixon of Raleigh, North Carolina. The guest speaker was Ira Day, of the Security Life and Trust Company, Raleigh, North Carolina, and the topic of his address was "Success." Alumni reports were given by H. A. Rhinehart and Hoke Steelman. Head Master Talton, acquainted the pledges with the history, aims and purpose of Delta Sigma Pi.—CLYDE B. ROSSER

DETROIT

WITH THE INCEPTION of the University of Detroit into the Missouri Valley Conference, and with the anticipation of being leaders in football in the conference this year, Theta Chapter commenced the college year with the same zeal and vigor. Theta Chapter was well on its way to 100,000 points when it "kicked off" with the traditional Football Frolic, which featured Count Basie and his top band at the Masonic Temple's Fountain Ballroom, October 8, 1949. This social highlight of the fall season was successfully conducted under the auspices of Brothers Stromer and Rentz, who deserved and were accorded high praise from all those in attendance. The evening was highlighted by a typical Deltasig party at the Fort Wayne Hotel.

Theta Chapter was proud to present to the University of Detroit pennants representing all teams in the Missouri Valley Conference to be flown in the stadium at football games. The University of Detroit athletic department expressed their gratification for the ardent aid Theta Chapter displayed. The fabulous diamond-studded fraternity badge presented at the Grand Chapter Congress to the brother holding the lucky number "17" is now proudly worn by Brother William Cornish of Theta Chapter. Brother Cornish was just as surprised at winning the badge as were all the Brothers here at Detroit.

While visiting Xi Chapter at the University of Michigan soon after school started, we noticed the golfing trophy held a place of high esteem in the reception room of the chapter house. Xi Chapter has enjoyed possession of the trophy for the past two years due to the fact they have won both tournaments between themselves and Theta Chapter. The proverbial worm turned at the tournament held in early October of this year, however, when Theta's invading golf giants, Brothers Frank Bielman, Richard Philbin, Edward Philbin, William Smith, and Head Master Reed, trounced Xi's team, and carried the coveted trophy to the hallowed halls of Theta Chapter. Better luck next year, Xi!!!

Founders' Day was celebrated by Theta Chapter with a banquet at the University Club in downtown Detroit, in conjunction with Xi Chapter from the University of Michigan, Gamma Theta Chapter from Wayne University, and our new chapter, Gamma Kappa Chapter from Michigan State College. Brother Gene Cadieux, President of the Delta Sigma Pi alumni of Detroit, inaugurated this merger of the several state chapters.

Rushing Festivities commenced in mid-October with fine orientation speeches by Brother Robert L. Fregolle, and alumni-president Gene Cadieux. After thorough and intensive screening, Theta Chapter accepted 32 men to pledgship, who expressed their desire to undergo the rigorous and extensive preliminaries in anticipation to brotherhood. The reins of chapter leadership and control were turned over to the following officers: John L. Reed, head master; John Cullen, senior warden; Robert LeFevre, treasurer; Floyd D. Washburn, scribe; William Cornish, historian.

An impressive day was spent by many stalwarts of Theta Chapter at the recent installation of Gamma Kappa Chapter at Michigan State College in East Lansing, Michigan, October 29, 1949. The new brothers at Michigan State College were greeted into brotherhood by a multitude of visiting brothers from chapters in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, and from as far south as Alabama. Good luck to you, Gamma Kappa, from Theta Chapter, in attaining the number one position on the campus!!—WALTER E. GINGELL

PENNSYLVANIA

BETA NU CHAPTER at the University of Pennsylvania has a particularly active program this year under the very able direction of our newly elected Head Master John Reggia. Since his initiation into the fraternity, Brother Reggia has shown a particular enthusiasm for doing a job well, hence, he was unanimously elected upon the resignation of Brother Bill Winkopp.

This chapter, being composed solely of evening division students, holds its meetings after classes. Along with our regular bi-monthly business meetings, we hold two professional meetings per month. One of the most inspiring messages thus far was delivered by Mr. Richard Anderson of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. His topic was "Telephone Courtesy."

We, of the active chapter, had the honor of being invited to an alumni open house last month, at which time past Grand President Allen Fowler gave a résumé of the objectives accomplished during his term in office. He told of the progressive program The Central Office has organized for installation of new undergraduate chapters into our fraternity, also, the proposed schedule for the fraternity in the future. Needless to say, the chapter house was well packed for this honored occasion.

The social calendar this year is under the very capable direction of Brother Ed Coll. Thus far, we have had three Saturday night parties, our annual "Barn Dance" having the best attendance. A full house has prevailed at the "after game" parties.

Founders' Day was appropriately celebrated at the University Club on Friday, November 4. The guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Morris Wolf, head of the Department of Social Studies, Girard College, who delivered a very timely message on "Our Responsibilities as World Leaders." Brother H. Palmer Lippincott presided at the dinner and Brother Thomas J. Mullaney was toastmaster for the evening. Guests included Dr. J. Russell Doubman, University of Pennsylvania; Dr. Stanley F. Chamberlain, faculty advisor, Omega Chapter, Temple University; and, our Past Grand President, Allen Fowler, who presented greetings to the group. The affair was well attended by actives and alumni of Omega Chapter and the Beta Nu Chapter. Brother Bert Daikeler was elected president of the Evening School Association and Brother Earl T. Culp a member of the Board of Governors of Wharton Evening School of the University of Pennsylvania.—BERT C. DAIKELER

NEW YORK

ALPHA CHAPTER, without undue optimism, is looking forward to a very successful year. We are now well established in our new "house." New York University purchased the block in which our previous house was located for the purpose of constructing a law school, and thereby forced us to find a new location. The alumni club gave us financial assistance in getting our new quarters. The housing situation being what it is, we consider ourselves very fortunate in obtaining a three-room apartment on 222 Sullivan St. We moved into our new "house" on July 15 and since then have furnished it with new furniture. All of the brothers have done their part in making it a fraternity house to be proud of, and on October 15 a gala Housewarming Party was held. Each couple donated a gift to the apartment, and these gifts ranged from a vase to a full-sized carpet.

During the spring term, Alpha Chapter initiated five pledges. Five faculty members were also welcomed into the fraternity. The professional committee, under the leadership of Brother Struse, gave the professional program an excellent start by having Mr. Raymond Haun as speaker for our first meeting of this term. Mr. Haun is associated with This Week Magazine. His very informative and interesting talk dealt with retail food distribution in this country, especially in regard to chain food store merchandising.

Our master of festivities, Brother Jacobsen, deserves credit for seeing that the social life of the brothers is not neglected. In addition to the football games and dances, we have had sorority dances and the Housewarming Party. The exceptionally fine attendance at both the professional meetings and the social activities is ample proof of their success. The new pledge class for this term is progressing very satisfactorily. To date there are 12 pledges in the class, and Brother Foley, our junior warden, is putting them through their proper paces. On November 7, the active chapter, cooperating with the alumni club, had a Founders' Day Dinner at the Midston House. Entertainment followed the excellent dinner. —LEROY KLEMM

DE PAUL

ALPHA OMEGA CHAPTER at De Paul University has been very actively engaged in professional and social functions these last few months. On September 16, prior to school's opening, an informal dance was held to renew old acquaintances and solidify our brotherly ties. A regular business meeting was held the first Friday in October at which time plans were discussed concerning pledging, the Jarabe, and an ad book for the latter dance.

The Primrose Room of the Hotel Sherman was the scene of the fall smoker where 25 prospective pledges were formally introduced to the members of Alpha Omega Chapter. The featured speaker of the evening was the Assistant Grand Secretary-Treasurer, J. D. Thomson, who greatly enlightened the prospective pledges on the aims, ideals, and history of the fraternity and the responsibilities and duties of its active membership.

The Alpha Omega Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi held its first series of Commerce Forums of the 1949-1950 school year during October and November. This forum takes up the basic questions of economic life as they pertain to present day problems. Three of the meetings have taken place up to this time. The first speaker was the Rev. Edward J. Kammer, C.M., Vice-President of De Paul University who spoke on "What Has Religion to Do with Economic Life?" Subsequent meetings had to be held in the Louis XIV Room of the Hotel Sherman because of the overflowing crowds in attendance. The second in the series of four talks was given by Dr. John P. Rowan, Chairman of the philosophy department and concerned itself with the relationship between society and economic life. "What is the Role of Government in Economic Life" was the title of the third lecture in the series presented up to this time. Dr. Martin M. McLaughlin, De Paul political science professor, held his audience in rapt attention as he explained the present day significance of the government as a controlling force in our economic society as it now exists.

At a regular monthly business meeting held at the Hotel Sherman on November 11, two distinguished guests were present. One was Province Officer Robert O. Lewis, who talked on the importance of the proper indoctrination of pledges, and on the duties and limitations of certain chapter offices. The principal speaker of the evening was Mr. Merle Loder, C.L.U., manager of the Chicago office of The Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Brother Merle was a member of Alpha Delta Chapter at the University of Nebraska, from which he graduated from in 1924. He is a Certified Life Underwriter and a member of the National Association of Life Underwriters. Merle has held numerous administrative positions in two chapters of this national organization. He is a past Province Officer and immediate past President of the Chicago Alumni Club. He spoke on "Life Insurance as a Career" and "Use of Aptitude Tests in the Selection of New Men." The brothers and pledges greatly enjoyed his informative talk, and many of those graduating in February expressed a desire to look into job possibilities in the insurance field.—WAYNE P. HANSEN

TULSA

THE BETA CHI CHAPTER at the University of Tulsa is as active as it has been in the past. The delegates to the Grand Chapter Congress have given the chapter many new and inspirational ideas. Our activity this fall began with a picnic sponsored by the active Tulsa Alumni Club. This picnic provided the opportunity for members and alumni to get together and discuss joint plans for the future.

The members of the chapter were given some timely advice by one of our professional speakers, Mr. Harry Clark, owner of one of Tulsa's leading clothing stores. Another of our professional activities was a tour through the Spartan Aircraft factory. We held our annual Founders' Day celebration with a banquet at Humphries Restaurant. Brother Kenneth Popejoy, who graduated from the University of Tulsa last May and since that time has been active in the Tulsa Alumni Club, gave a talk on the advantages that Delta Sigma Pi offers its members.

The chapter is now working hard on a float to be entered in the homecoming activities Saturday, November 19. We have also entered teams in intramural football and volleyball. Our volleyball team is now tied for first place. Another one of our programs is to present to the students of business the outstanding speakers in our field. Mr. Carmen Blough, research director of the American Institute of Accounting, spoke at an assembly on October 6, 1949. To the surprise of the chapter Mr. Blough is a brother Deltasig.—ROBERT L. SMITH

TEMPLE

OMEGA CHAPTER at Temple University has initiated a program of business and social activities designed to encourage participation by active members and maintain the interest and cooperation of the alumni. After the usual preparatory activities, a promising group of 16 pledges recently embarked upon the first of their "goat" chores. Their first introduction to the members of Omega Chapter took place late in October at a pledge banquet which was attended by 30 pledges, as many brothers, and several guests. Included in the current group of pledges is Samuel Wilson, a member of the faculty of the School of Business and Public Administration.

At a professional meeting held in November, Ashton Lee Jones, public relations head of the Sears and Roebuck Co. office in Philadelphia, discussed the nature and scope of the work in which he is engaged. The chapter's social committee composed of Brothers Wright and Butler have scheduled an impressive list of events to take place during the present school year. Those social activities which have already been held have gained commendations from many quarters. All of the brothers are now looking forward to the Omega Chapter Birthday Party and Dance which will be held on February 18.

With the opening of the fall term Omega Chapter is actively engaged on many athletic fronts under the guidance of Brother Seabourne, who is in charge of such activity. While members of Omega Chapter are secure in first and second place in the Inter-Fraternity Bowling League, the football team has nearly assured itself of runner-up honors.

Omega Chapter has joined whole-heartedly with other students of Temple University in supporting the Temple football team. Led by Head Master Glossner, a delegation from Omega Chapter was prominent among the large group which accompanied the team to Boston in November, at which time they engaged Boston University. That trip also gave us an opportunity to meet our Deltasig brothers from Boston University's Gamma Chapter, who were our hosts at a Dance and Buffet Dinner following the game. In an effort to extend the spirit of fraternity to nearby chapters of Delta Sigma Pi, Omega Chapter has joined with Beta Nu Chapter in making many of their social affairs reciprocal, and the response has been gratifying.

Aware that fraternities should take an active part in the life of the school, Omega Chapter is encouraging its members to participate to the fullest extent in all phases of activity. As a result of this effort, Delta Sigma Pi is assuming a prominent place among Temple University's student groups.—GEORGE HAVILAND

MISSISSIPPI

ALPHA PHI CHAPTER at the University of Mississippi celebrated Founders' Day with a dinner dance at the Mansion, November 7. This was the chapter's first social of the year, and its success is due chiefly to the efforts of the social committee, headed by Brother Jim Bennett. Guests for the occasion were Mayor and Mrs. R. X. Williams of Oxford, and the Rose of Deltasig, Miss Elinor Green. Mayor Williams made a short talk on "Business and Government."

Our best wishes go to former Dean Horace Brown who has just left us to accept the position as dean of the College of Business Administration at the University of Oklahoma. The duties of this office at Mississippi were turned over to Dr. McDonald K. Horne who, as a faculty member, was initiated by Alpha Phi Chapter in 1947. Tentative plans have been made for Alpha Phi Chapter to send a delegation to the installation of Gamma Mu Chapter at Tulane University on December 4. The members of the chapter are appreciative of the opportunity to take an active part in the installation of new chapters.

An organizational committee met with the department chairmen of the School of Commerce to discuss plans of a general program for the annual Commerce Day to be held in April. Brother Bennett, again heading the Commerce Day Committee, is arranging a series of forums to be conducted by prominent businessmen of the state.

Pledging activities this semester were drawn to a very successful close with the initiation of 23 new pledges and five faculty members into the chapter. The rushees were guests of the fraternity at a banquet where they heard an address by Dean Horne. The need for a new commerce building, along with a better placement program and the development of a student council in the School of Commerce was emphasized. Delta Sigma Pi was cited for its success in serving as liaison between students and the administration. With various social and professional events coming up this spring, Alpha Phi Chapter is looking forward to a very successful season.—JOHN D. GAUTIER

LOUISIANA STATE

BETA ZETA CHAPTER is very proud that one of its most outstanding members, Brother John Altazan, vice president of the College of Commerce, president of Pi Gamma Mu, president of Tau Kappa Epsilon, was tapped by Omicron Delta Kappa. Brother Altazan has been very active in the affairs of Delta Sigma Pi. Last year he was our chairman for the Chapter Efficiency Committee. This year members of Delta Sigma Pi were elected to most of the important offices in the College of Commerce. Brother Max Watson was elected to the office of secretary-treasurer of the College of Commerce, Head Master Malcolm Montgomery was swept into the presidency of the senior class by an overwhelming majority and Brother Charles L. Seegers was elected to the presidency of the junior class.

The rush program was started by an open house at the Pan American House. All the students in the College of Commerce were invited. Dr. Karl D. Reyer, one of our faculty members, gave a short address informing those present about Delta Sigma Pi and its purpose. On November 15, we pledged 25 new men. Brother Foster is running the pledge training, and when we initiate these pledges in December our chapter membership will be up to full strength. During the regular business meetings we drew up and adopted a new set of by-laws; Dr. Reyer's suggestions were most helpful in outlining the program for the rest of the academic year.

On October 6 the Louisiana State Deltasigs congregated at the Goal Post Restaurant to hear Mr. Allison Kolb, lawyer and C.P.A., give a very interesting talk on "Practical Problems in Getting a Job." The information and advice he gave us will prove to be especially valuable to those who will graduate in February. November 2 was a day that will long be remembered by us. On this day Lieutenant Governor William Dodd talked to the Deltasigs and faculty of the College of Commerce on the efforts of the state to attract industry by offering tax exemptions, and on the fight to retain control of the Tidelands. He also invited the members of Delta Sigma Pi to attend the meetings of the Constitutional Convention so that we will become interested into taking a part in government affairs. After the talk we went out to the Kaiser Aluminum plant here in Baton Rouge where a tour of the plant had been arranged for us. We spent a very enjoyable afternoon out there.

Those brothers who attended the Grand Chapter Congress, representing Beta Zeta Chapter, came away with so many new ideas and renewed enthusiasm that the chapter has been revitalized. This year is to be one of the best in the history of the chapter.—HENRY HOLST-LEIVA

SOUTH DAKOTA

ALPHA ETA CHAPTER'S first professional meeting of the year was held October 20, 1949. Mr. Schirmer, an insurance adjuster for Western Adjustment and Inspection Company of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, spoke to the chapter on the subject of insurance adjustments. Mr. Schirmer gave a very interesting insight into the every-day problems confronting an insurance adjuster. At the chapter's regular business meeting on October 27, Alpha Eta Chapter pledged 16 new members. With 16 actives graduating in January, our chapter strength will be 27 members at the beginning of the second semester.

Founders' Day was celebrated with a successful stag party held downtown. A one hundred per cent attendance assured its success and gave the actives and pledges an excellent chance to become acquainted. Dakota Day, the University of South Dakota's homecoming, held on Saturday, October 22, was the highlight of the semester. Although the South Dakota "Coyotes" had to be satisfied with a 6-6 tie with Morningside College, the day was a success. Alpha Eta Chapter's float entry was a huge mock stock ticker which was supposedly relaying the story of the football game.

For the second successive year the Roy C. Davis Scholarship Trophy was awarded to Alpha Eta Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. This trophy is given every year to the fraternity on the University of South Dakota campus having the highest scholastic average. Brother Henry C. Lucas, member of the Grand Council, addressed Alpha Eta Chapter at an informal meeting held Sunday, November 13. Brother Lucas explained the placement bureau of Delta Sigma Pi and told us how to apply for jobs after we graduate.

Alpha Eta Chapter is actively engaged in the university's intramural sports program. Thus far, a bowling team and a basketball team have been organized. Some of the speedsters of the chapter have been discussing a chapter track team to take part in the intramural track meet held in the spring. A volleyball team is also contemplated.—NORMAN H. BUCK

MIAMI U.

ALPHA UPSILON CHAPTER at Miami University celebrated Founders' Day with a business luncheon, featuring a guest speaker. Mr. Glen Bingman of Ford Motor Company addressed the group on the subject of "The Ford Field Training Program." Mr. Bingman told the group that Ford stresses certain characteristics that a prospective employee must possess. Leadership, scholarship, personality, and executive caliber were the essential attributes the company desired. The chapter displayed much interest in his speech and was very active in the question and answer session that followed. We are planning to have more of these speakers this year, hoping that this will add to our knowledge of the commercial field presented to us by business men.

Our first professional meeting for this year featured a report by Head Master Liedtke, concerning his attendance at the national convention in Baltimore this fall. He brought back to the chapter many important ideas which if implemented will add much to the strength and importance of our chapter. The meeting was closed by the adoption of specific goals the chapter hopes to attain in the forthcoming year.

Our chapter recently made the first business field trip of the year. The Bruck Brewing Company in Cincinnati, Ohio, was the firm visited. The brothers were escorted through the plant by a brewmaster who showed them the different phases in the process of brewing. As a result of a recent smoker, we have pledged 37 men, every one of whom is a potential asset to Delta Sigma Pi. By the time of the next publishing of DELTASIG, these pledges will have been initiated to further increase our chapter strength and future possibilities.—GERALD MILLER

RIDER

BETA XI CHAPTER wishes at this time to extend its heartiest congratulations to Chi Chapter and the Baltimore Alumni Club for the wonderful job they did in making the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Congress a complete success. Six brothers from this chapter were fortunate enough to attend the convention and they have expressed their hope of being able to attend the next one in 1951. With the beginning of another school year, our chapter has settled down to work after the summer vacation and would like it to be known to all other chapters that it plans on winning the Chapter Efficiency Contest again to make it three years in succession. While many of the brothers did not attend the summer session, the chapter still hummed with activity. Among the various affairs held was a July beach party at Lake Hopatcony, New Jersey. This affair was a huge success due to the many active brothers and alumni that were able to attend.

We opened the fall social season with our annual Hobo Party. Over 60 Brothers and their dates attended this affair. Everyone received a corncob pipe as a souvenir of the party. As part of our Founders' Day celebration, the history of Delta Sigma Pi was broadcast over a local radio station, and all the brothers wore a red rose boutonniere to school. A stag party was held the same night at the chapter house.

A complete and varied series of professional meetings have been planned for the year by Brother Sutherland. The professional meetings are to be held every other week, at which time a guest speaker, specialized in some particular phase of business, gives interesting highlights in his field. Also, in conjunction with this program, tours will be made through factories in the vicinity. The fall smoker was held in the Club Clio on October 31. About 50 prospective members attended this event and became acquainted with active and alumni chapter members. On November 10, pledge season began with 21 men accepting bids out of the 21 bids sent out.

In extra-curricular functions on the campus, Beta Xi Chapter won first prize for the best banner presented at a football pep rally. Plans are being made for our Christmas Party for underprivileged children. Last year we began this idea by bringing 50 children to the chapter house where one of the brothers dressed as Santa Claus and distributed toys and games to the children. The children were also given refreshments and were entertained by the brothers. Plans are also being made for our Initiatory Formal Dinner Dance which will be held on February 11, 1950.

In the field of sports our intramural softball team walked off with the league championship and we have added another trophy to our growing collection. Our football team ended up in third place after a slow start and our bowling team is slowly climbing to the top of the bowling league. On the varsity side of sports, Brothers John "Pop" Moore and Nick "Crazy Legs" Spadaccinni have completed three years on the varsity football team. Brother John "Long John" Cottrill will be seen on the basketball court this year, in his fourth and final year, and Brother Mike "Chooch" Lalla will play his final year on the baseball team. We hope that our pledges will be able to keep up this good record.—GORDON J. GRANT

DENVER

ALPHA NU CHAPTER at the University of Denver completed another successful year under the capable leadership of Head Master Tezak. One of the climaxing events of the year was the spring formal dinner dance which was held at the Placer Inn at Idaho Springs, Colorado, on May 28, 1949. The theme of the dance was in French motif, including the menu and decorations. The highlight of the evening was the award made to Brother Hickey, a charter member of Alpha Nu Chapter, for being the alumni who contributed the most to the progress of the active chapter during the preceding school year.

Taking honors in the elections held in May for the College of Business Administration were Brother Elisha, who was elected to the office of treasurer, and Brother Bergo, who was elected as Inter-School Council representative. The zenith of the year was the formal initiation, of the pledge class, and banquet which took place on June 5, 1949, at the Cosmopolitan Hotel. Especially significant on this occasion was the initiation of Frank H. Ricketson, Jr., as an honorary member of Alpha Nu Chapter. Brother Ricketson was chosen for his high ideals and outstanding performance in the field of commerce. He is president of the Fox Inter-Mountain Amusement Corporation, president of the Central City Opera House Corporation, trustee of the University of Denver, and author of the book, "Management of Motion Picture Theaters." The initiation ceremony was conducted by charter members of Alpha Nu Chapter who did a remarkable job. Brother Lucas, Grand Council Member, represented The Central Office at this memorable occasion. We were most happy to have Brother Lucas present. We all parted thinking of the beauty of the initiation ritual, the friendly brotherhood that prevailed throughout the day and the seriousness noted during the honoring of our war dead.

After a short summer intermission Alpha Nu Chapter resumed its activities under the capable leadership of Head Master Petty. The first meeting was held on September 21, 1949, with a total of 49 members returning to classes this year. The beginning of the fall quarter has shown a promising pledge class. In conjunction with our rushing activities, Alpha Nu Chapter held a barn dance and hayrack ride, a dinner and a smoker for the prospective pledges. These functions were well attended.

On October 12, the chapter held its first professional meeting of the year at Baur's Restaurant. Dr. Elwood Murray, director of the speech department at the University of Denver, spoke on the subject of "Effective Speech in the World of Business." On October 26 a professional meeting was held celebrating Founders' Day and the formal pledging of our prospective members. We pledged 23 rushees, and all of these men show promising futures with the Alpha Nu Chapter. A huge cake with 42 candles adorned the table in commemoration of the founding of The International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi. Brother Hickey gave an excellent talk on "Fraternal Spirit in Business." Brother Hickey also delved into the past to give us some of the history of Alpha Nu Chapter. Another professional meeting was held on November 16, 1949. Mr. Mathew Bernatsky, associate professor of Advance Food Cookery at the School of Hotel and Restaurant Management, University of Denver, spoke to us on European Hotels. Even those not affiliated with the Hotel and Restaurant School found the talk most interesting and profitable. The big social event of the fall quarter for Alpha Nu Chapter is our Costume Ball to be held November 18, in the Empire Room of the Shirley Savoy Hotel. The ball, which is in honor of our new pledge class, will feature the presentation of the pledge class queen, Miss Joan Thompson, Alpha Gamma Delta.

OMAHA

GAMMA ETA CHAPTER at the University of Omaha opened its first year as a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi with a rushing smoker, October 2. In spite of bad weather and evening classes, 35 interested students were in attendance. The program was strictly informal, built around a discussion of the history, requirements, advantages and activities of Delta Sigma Pi. A buffet luncheon followed the meeting, and the actives were given a chance to meet and greet the prospective pledges of Gamma Eta Chapter. As a result of the smoker, 25 students were pledged at the business-professional meeting held October 28. Following the pledging ceremonies, Mr. Cliff N. Odgen, ex-Nebraska State Legislator, and branch manager of the Securities and Acceptance Corporation of Omaha, spoke on "Government and Its Relation to Business." Following Mr. Odgen's address the meeting was opened to discussion of the effects of municipal, state and federal regulations upon business.

In commemoration of Delta Sigma Pi's forty-second year as a leading commerce fraternity, Gamma Eta Chapter held a formal Founders' Day meeting at American Legion Club Post No. 1, November 10. The principal speaker of the evening was Brother Henry C. Lucas, a member of the Grand Council, spoke on the history and activities of Delta Sigma Pi. In addition to the actives and pledges, invited guests included the brothers of Beta Theta Chapter; alumni of Gamma Eta Chapter; and brothers of the faculty of the University of Omaha.

Gamma Eta Chapter's first year of inter-mural athletic competition shows promise. The football team opened with a burst of fire but was eventually eliminated from competition. The bowling team is still running in the top money, with its sights set on the champion's crown. Plans are being laid for the opening of the basketball season, at which time the chapter will floor a potentially powerful cage club. With the completion of the University of Omaha's new three-quarter of a million dollar field house and stadium, many seasons of powerful Gamma Eta Chapter teams are in sight.

At this time Gamma Eta Chapter would like to take the opportunity to publicly express its thanks, on behalf of its Grand Chapter Congress Delegation, to the brothers of Beta Xi Chapter for the fraternal hand of friendship and welcome extended to them on their tour of Trenton, New Jersey, and Rider College. Theirs was the true fraternal spirit!—JOHN A. SCHUCHART, JR.

BETA OMICRON CHAPTER celebrated Founders' Day with a formal dance at Rutgers University.

RUTGERS—University College

EIGHT NEOPHYTES WERE ADMITTED to the brotherhood of Delta Sigma Pi at our last initiation ceremony: A. R. Ferguson, W. J. Hingel, A. E. Lueddeke, W. E. Ryan, Jr., J. R. Smith, Charles Wettach, J. A. Williams and Robert Roman. The banquet at the Military Park Hotel in Newark, New Jersey, was well attended by the alumni and we had as guest speaker, Mr. Joseph Ahern, regional director of the Veterans Administration for the state of New Jersey. Mr. Ahern's enthusiastic address gave all a better knowledge of the task to be accomplished, and the work being done by the Veterans Administration.

Brother Robert G. Busse, member of the Grand Council, was present, too. His favorable comments about Beta Rho Chapter's enthusiasm were, naturally, well received. His purposeful discussion of fraternity membership, and cooperative support by the membership, was highly informative to the old and new members alike. At the honored guests' table, in addition to Mr. Ahern and Brother Busse, were Province Officers George Whitmore and Frank Dowd from Beta Rho and Beta Xi Chapters, respectively, and Head Master A. N. Robertson.

Amid the usual decorum and dignity that prevails at these functions, your correspondent was designated Keeper of the Parchment Roll. We were fortunate to have our initiation ritual conducted by the Beta Xi Chapter team from Rider College in Trenton. This was a new venture for us and resulted, we are sure, in closer chapter associations and a better understanding between both schools. The first meeting of the new semester was held at the Military Park Hotel. Province Officer George Whitmore highlighted the meeting with a synopsis of the Grand Chapter Congress, and made everyone who couldn't attend, wish they had. Plans were made for pledging during December and February, with probable initiation early in the spring. All the new initiates are working on one of the committees of the chapter.

The chapter birthday party was celebrated in a fitting manner at the Hotel Suburban in East Orange. Our annual Founders' Day party is to be held at the Green Mountain Club in West Orange, Saturday evening, November 12. We've been fortunate in the past in having a fine representative group of alumni and the usual attendance is anticipated. The pledging of neophytes is the item of particular interest for the current semester and we are confident that our spring initiation will be a grand success.—A. E. LUEDDEKE

GEORGIA—Athens

PI CHAPTER HELD its Fall Quarter smoker on Sunday night, October 9, at the Georgian Hotel. Prior to the smoker, the rushees were entertained by the brothers at the recently acquired chapter house at 590 South Lumpkin Street. Principal speakers at the smoker were Brothers John F. Burke and H. M. Heckman. Brother Burke presented a short speech on the "Benefits of a Professional Fraternity." The benefits of any fraternity said Brother Burke, depend upon how much effort and initiative the individual members put into the organization. Brother H. M. Heckman in his address welcomed the rushees to the smoker and discussed the forthcoming Accounting Institute. In his discussion of the Accounting Institute, Brother Heckman pointed out that the Institute was held for the primary purpose of acquainting accounting students with problems of present day accountants.

Principal speakers for Founders' Day were Robert M. Dale, former Head Master of Kappa Chapter, and Dr. James E. Gates, dean of the College of Business Administration. The banquet was held November 6. The Third Annual Accounting Institute was held November 17-19. Well known national and state speakers were secured for the occasion. The Institute officially opened Thursday, November 17, with an audit demonstration under the direction of Mr. Hugh M. Mercer of Atlanta. Mr. John L. Carey, executive director of the American Institute of Accountants, summarized the papers delivered and gave a resumé of recent developments in the accounting profession.

Brothers Charles McMillan and Carl Chambers, delegates to the Grand Chapter Congress, presented us with impressive news of a most successful Grand Chapter Congress. Many of us are looking forward to attending it next year. We, of Pi Chapter, are happy to announce that at long last our dream of obtaining a chapter house has been realized. We are able to accommodate a number of visiting brothers in the house and will always welcome those that come by to see us. We are located at 590 S. Lumpkin Street—Telephone 4569.—WM. NEBRASKA

ALPHA DELTA CHAPTER of Delta Sigma Pi has enjoyed one of the busiest first semesters in the memories of most of the older actives. Besides our regular alternating business meetings and dinners we have squeezed in an extensive industrial tour, a social meeting with the Lincoln Alumni club, an all College of Business Administration Banquet, which we helped sponsor, and a fine smoker, not to mention our participation in homecoming and intramural sports.

Highlight of these many activities was probably the industrial tour. Every available active and many of the prospective pledge crop congregated in Omaha, Nebraska, to go through the local branch of Northwestern Bell Telephone, the Omaha Grain Exchange, W O W-TV, and the Storz Brewery. An unexpected but pleasant turn of events was the opportunity for four of our brothers to be televised on the Coffee Club program with "Miss Wisconsin" and the scanning of the rest of the chapter in the audience by the television camera. Head Master Freeman and Brothers Mulder, Juracek and Devish were the lucky four who did their best to plug Delta Sigma Pi on television. We have even expected movie offers for some of them.

Alpha Delta Chapter fared pretty well in the scholastic awards presented at the annual College of Business Administration banquet. Head Master Freeman and Brothers Martin, Kasik, and Whitcomb received the coveted selection by the local chapter of Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary society. Pledge Robert Patterson received one of the ten Gold Keys awarded to outstanding freshmen and then won the E. R. Wells Scholarship.

The stag party held with the alumni seems to merit a return engagement. At the expense of being trite, a good time was had by all. We at the University of Nebraska have a house problem. Many times we have turned to the alumni for advice and aid. Now after this one night's get-together we feel that we know them better and they know us better. Closer harmony should result. We recommend to other chapters a meet-the-alums program.

The smoker held primarily to meet the younger men in our college succeeded in that it yielded us a fine pledge group. All of the actives turned out to meet these men from whom we chose 23 to become members. Busy as our first semester has been, we look forward to a busier one. By planning and executing our tours, dinners and social functions, we have improved the chapter spirit 100 per cent. To all of our Brothers around the country we express the invitation that when in Lincoln, Nebraska, stop at 1527 "M" Street and meet us. We want to meet you.—ELDON S. HUFF

FLORIDA

BETA ETA CHAPTER at the University of Florida is having its most active semester since it was reactivated in March of 1948. Most of the increase in activity is due to the work of one man, Head Master Reeves. The whole chapter is inspired by Brother Reeve's aggressiveness and his power to get things done. We should have no trouble meeting the requirements of the Chapter Efficiency Contest, and we anticipate a final score of 100,000 points.

This semester we inaugurated a series of radio programs. These programs strive to clarify current business and economic problems and events. We believe that we are the first chapter of Delta Sigma Pi to sponsor such programs. Several functions are planned for the remainder of the semester. The first of these events is to be of assistance in the installation of Gamma Lambda Chapter at Florida State University at Tallahassee, Florida, this being the third chapter of Delta Sigma Pi in the state of Florida. A field trip is next on the agenda. On January 10, we plan to journey down to Lake Hamilton and Lake Wales, Florida, to visit citrus canning plants. The plant at Lake Wales, The Florida Citrus Canning Cooperative, is the largest of its kind in the world. Finally we will present films to the student body on the different phases of business throughout the school year.

Brother Bishop was elected alternate captain of the Florida "Gator" football squad. Brother Bishop, playing his fourth and final season, has turned in one of the most sterling performances of his career at end, having been a mainstay on the flank for the "Gators" all season. Brother Bishop, a quiet spoken, easy going sort of fellow, started at end for the "Gators" in 1946, and has been playing that position ever since. Topping six feet and weighing in at 180 pounds, Bishop is the lightest man on the Florida forward wall, but makes up what he lacks in heft with plenty of aggressiveness and speed. Bishop is rated as one of the best defensive flankmen in southern circles today.

Brother Bishop played what was perhaps the finest game of his career against Georgia's Bulldogs this season when the Florida "Gators" swamped the men from Athens by a 28-7 count. Bishop spent the majority of his time in the Georgia backfield, throwing Georgia's star, Ray Prospero for telling losses. Bishop is majoring in accounting at the University of Florida and will graduate in June, 1950.—DONALD R. CORBETT

MARQUETTE

DELTA CHAPTER at the Marquette University wishes to extend hearty congratulations to the entire fraternity for the success of the Grand Chapter Congress held at Baltimore this past summer. Our official delegate reported it as a very successful and memorable event. This report was substantiated by the unofficial delegates that attended.

We are happy to know that our list of chapters has increased with the addition of several new chapters. We welcome the Gamma Delta Chapter, the Gamma Epsilon Chapter, the Gamma Zeta Chapter, the Gamma Eta Chapter, the Gamma Theta Chapter, and the Gamma Iota Chapter to the ranks of Delta Sigma Pi.

Our new officers for the current semester are Don Roettgers as head master, James Bonness as senior warden, Warren Strachota as junior warden, Harold Nass as scribe, William Hertel as treasurer, William Schendt as chancellor, John Frazier as historian, and Donald Wolf as master of festivities. Activities for the present semester were well on the way when our first smoker was held at the Marine Memorial Hall on October 3. Guest attendance was considerably higher than usual and of the 88 present only 40 received an invitation to attend our second smoker. Of this group 24 were pledged. The class will be formally initiated on November 19.

A lecture was given on October 18 by Mr. R. H. Palmer of Cluett, Peabody & Company to the entire assembly of the School of Business Administration. Co-sponsors of the lecture were the Commerce Club and Delta Chapter. Mr. Palmer spoke on "Distribution Policy, FINAL TOUCHES being put on Alpha Delta Chapter's float which was entered in the University of Nebraska homecoming parade.

ALPHA NU CHAPTER, Denver, held its Spring Formal Dinner Dance at the Placer Inn located in Idaho Springs, Colorado.

Sales Analysis, and the Organization of the Sales Division." Delta Chapter held an informal luncheon after the lecture. The first professional meeting was held in November. Mr. John Claude, representing John Claude and Associates, whose work consists of selling the educational services of the associates to the field of industrial arts and trade and industrial education spoke on "35 Years as a Travelling Salesman." His lecture proved interesting and enlightening.

Founders' Day was celebrated in conjunction with Marquette Homecoming by having a buffet luncheon and dance at the Tunnel Inn. The alumni were well represented. Unusual talent was noted in our group of pledges when they surprised us with good and varied entertainment at our pledge luncheon. It was held at the Tunnel Inn for the benefit of the alumni and the actives. Delta Chapter is looking forward to a year of activity and is determined to be a winner in the 1950 Chapter Efficiency Contest.—HAROLD L. NASS

GEORGETOWN

MU CHAPTER somehow survived the notorious Washington summer climate and immediately launched improvements on the chapter house before the Seventeenth Grand Chapter Conference convened in nearby Baltimore. The chapter house was completely repainted inside and out in sufficient time for us to throw out the welcome mat for all delegates who would care to visit us. Several delegates accepted our invitation.

Participation in school activities by Georgetown Deltasigs was well evidenced by the results of the school elections held here in October. Head Master Nader was elected president of the Student Body. Brother Duffy, Brother Bischoff and Brother Stenzel were elected to the Student Council. Delta Sigma Pi was also well represented at the recent Foreign Trade Convention held in New York October 31 through November 2. Brother Nader and Brother Bischoff were among those selected to represent the students of the School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University. The faculty delegates selected were Brother J. Raymond Trainor, secretary of the school, and Brother Connie Herron, head of the exporting department.

Mu Chapter is now in the midst of long range plans for its alumni activities. Commencing with the fall initiation banquet, we plan annual reunions of the alumni for each preceding five-year period. For the banquet on December 3, we especially honored the classes of 1939, 1934, 1929 and 1924 (Mu Chapter was inactive in 1944). We expect this to become an annual chapter custom.

In addition, we are preparing a directory containing the names and addresses of all our alumni. The mailing list is now in progress. It is urged that all alumni return the information card they received. If any Mu Chapter alumnus did not receive this card and a letter from us, we would appreciate his dropping us a line as we do not have his address. The address of the chapter house is 2210 20th Street, Northwest, Washington, D.C.

Mu Chapter has a guest living in the house. In October, Peter Pirogov, one of the Russian fliers who escaped into the American Zone of Austria, moved into the house for a while to improve his fluency of the English language and to learn more about American traditions. At the present time, Peter is completing work on a book about life in Russia, which he hopes to publish in February. We have all welcomed this opportunity to impart our opinions of America and of fundamental American business practice to this refugee of the Soviet system.—DAVID R. STENZEL

CINCINNATI

ALPHA THETA CHAPTER, installed at the University of Cincinnati in 1924, found it necessary to suspend operation in 1942 for the simple reason that its members were good men and, because they were good men, their services were required in a phase of activity different from any they had previously undertaken, the Armed Forces. It was not until 1948 that the chapter was reactivated. Province Officer Glenn A. Beyring and alumnus John Mossbacker are the two men primarily responsible for the reactivation. Brothers Beyring and Mossbacker went to considerable expense and trouble in initiating the action which led to this. The chapter is grateful to them and to the fellow members from other campuses who were present at the 1948 spring initiation.

A great number of problems confronted the group making up the chapter, but the inexperience of the members was more than compensated for by the willingness and capability they exercised in coping with these problems. For example: prior to the war, Delta Sigma Pi enjoyed an excellent reputation on the campus. Last year, however, a prospective pledge, when approached by a member in regard to his joining, replied, "Delta Sigma Pi? What's that?" It became painfully apparent to the executive committee of the chapter that a good deal of work was necessary to restore our chapter to its previous position among the organizations on the campus. The chapter is fortunate in having a fair number of Delta Sigma Pi alumni among the faculty of the College of Business Administration. The aid and advice these brothers have rendered has proved to be most helpful to Alpha Theta Chapter.

We are now in the midst of a program to put Delta Sigma Pi before the student body. This may prove to be our most stubborn problem, but we are confident that given the caliber of leadership we have enjoyed, and the spirit of cooperation which is virtually unanimous in our chapter, it will be only a short time before Delta Sigma Pi has renewed its position on the campus.

While pursuing our more immediate goals, we have not lost sight of other aims. One of our fondest hopes is to secure a fraternity house as in the days of old. Another is to form an active alumni group and, to attain this, we are contacting all alumni in the area. How well and thoroughly we achieve these aims is dependent upon the active support of each and every man wearing the pin of Delta Sigma Pi. We firmly believe, "Every Debit Has A Credit."—PETER REGINELLI

WASHINGTON

ALPHA CHI CHAPTER at Washington University celebrated Founders' Day with a successful banquet. The main event of the evening was a very informative and interesting talk by Leslie E. Buchan, newly selected dean of the School of Business and Public Administration. Dean Buchan, who comes to us from Tulane University, where he was succeeded by Brother Robert W. French as dean of the Tulane College of Commerce and Business Administration, spoke to us about the future plans of the school. At this time he presented to us a far reaching and comprehensive program in the field of business education, one which should bring added prominence to our school. At the conclusion of his talk, we entered into a question and answer period, during which suggestions from the student standpoint were welcomed by the dean. Dean Buchan left no doubt that he intended to make every possible use of the professional and other phases of Delta Sigma Pi's program in furthering the interests of the school. Another highlight of the banquet was the action of one of our alumni, Brother Fred S. Kelly in offering to the active chapter the facilities of his particular business library for their personal enlightenment in the field of investment banking.

At our first professional meeting of the year, Mr. Clifford Ward, a C.P.A. of Price Waterhouse and Company, spoke to us about a field of interest to all, the tax field. Not only did it prove to be an interesting subject but one that was well presented and served to answer a good many popular questions about taxation and tax accounting. The question and answer period which followed brought forth many other questions from the actives and the prospective pledges in attendance.

Among our other activities thus far, we would include also our float in the Homecoming Parade which was very unique, and we feel certain it must have helped to bring about Washington University's victory of that afternoon. Alpha Chi Chapter looks forward to a fine pledge class as a result of the work of Senior Warden Chambers and Junior Warden Dalton, who have planned an excellent pledge training program. Under the able leadership of Head Master Eberhardt, we anticipate a very successful year in the history of Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Chi Chapter.—GEORGE E. EWING

ALABAMA

THE FIRST MEETING during this semester, of Alpha Sigma Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, was held October 3, and all new officers were present. Each seemed to be eager to take over his responsibilities and much achievement will be expected during the year. With the help of such leadership, the Alpha Sigma Chapter is planning for a very active year—one in which each member will become better fitted for life in the business world.

During the first meeting, Head Master Cronin gave a very interesting and informative account of his trip to the Grand Chapter Congress in Baltimore, Maryland, and gave us a short summary of what took place there. Dr. Morley, head of the management department of the School of Commerce and Business Administration, was the speaker at our first professional meeting. He spoke on the current strike situation. After his talk a lively discussion of current affairs took place.

Alpha Sigma Chapter is proud to mention that it was among the 23 chapters obtaining 100,000 points in the Chapter Efficiency Contest last year. We feel that it was only through the cooperation of each member that this goal was reached and that each should be congratulated. Our rush program is now well under way. In fact, we already have a group of 23 pledges who will be initiated December 6. Groundwork for a banquet, to be held in honor of the new members, is now being laid. We plan to have another formal initiation during the second semester.

Founders' Day was celebrated in honor of those who founded our great fraternal organization so that they, as well as their purposes, might not be forgotten. A party was held at the Veterans' Club. The large attendance enjoyed refreshments and danced to the music of the top bands of the country—juke box style. During intermission, a Yellow Dog initiation was held. The following brothers were initiated: George Kizziak, Kelly Dover, Lionel Noonan and Theo Mitchelson. Members of the faculty initiated were: D. W. Murphy, Jeff Coleman and Harold Helms.

It is hoped that some project in which each member can take part can soon be gotten under way by the chapter. We are at the present closely connected with the activities of the Commerce Association.—JOHN H. ELLIS

■ The blueprints were completed in 1930 for the National Endowment Fund of Delta Sigma Pi. They provided for the eventual perpetuation of the fraternity and the creation of a fund from which chapters could obtain means to finance housing and students could secure loans which would enable them to complete their college education.

■ 1500 Life Members have already provided the foundation for the National Endowment Fund, and the loans which have already been made to chapters and scores of students have convinced the architects of the soundness of these blueprints. Your Life Membership is needed to continue the construction of the National Endowment Fund.

■ The $50 which it will cost you for a Life Membership is not a gift or donation in any sense of the word as you will receive in return copies of the national magazine, The DELTASIG; the ALUMNI NEWS and all of the services of the fraternity for life.

■ A beautiful Life Membership certificate and an attractive Life Membership card will be sent to you. You will also have an immeasurable amount of satisfaction in knowing that you have contributed to the growth of the National Endowment Fund, enabling students to complete their education and chapters to obtain fraternity houses.

■ Select the plan of enrollment which is most convenient to you and pick out your "knothole" through which you can view the construction of the National Endowment Fund. You may send your check for $50, which is the total cost; or you may elect to send $5 a month for ten months; or you may send $10 a month for five months. Applications and remittances should be mailed to The Central Office of Delta Sigma Pi in Chicago.
